CRASH NEAR WILLARD FATAL TO SALESMAN

St. Louis Man Dies In Mishap, Patrolman Killed on Way To Investigate It.

TOLL REACHES HIGH PEAK

Officer Was Same One Who Probed Crash Which Killed Three Mansfielders.

Two persons died in weekend traffic accidents in the Mansfield area and a state highway patrolman was killed as he hurried to the scene of one of the mishaps, while the state's toll mounted to 31 dead, highest in weeks.

Killed instantly when the car he was driving skidded on a curve and overturned on State Route 61 four miles south of Willard, John Harkins, 44, a St. Louis salesman, became the fifth accident victim in four days in the New Haven community. Three Mansfield youths and a Shiloh girl died last Thursday night in a grade crossing crash near the scene of yesterday's fatal mishap.

State Patrolman Paul L. McManis, 28, Mt. Vernon, who worked out of the Bellevue substation, was killed Sunday afternoon north of Bellevue while enroute to New Haven to investigate the accident in which Harkins died. McManis, who had been on the job only six weeks, was one of the two patrolmen who investigated the tragedy last Thursday night which took the lives of the four Richland county young people.

Richard Palmer, 17, of Crestline, was fatally injured Saturday afternoon when the car he was driving turned over on State Route 181 nine miles west of Mansfield. He was Richland county's 21st traffic fatality of the year.

Patrolman McManis was riding wth Patrolman T. B. Morgan, 33, of Martins Ferry who was injured in the crash. His condition was not believed serious. Witnesses said the patrol car, its siren screaming, crashed when the driver of an

HOLIDAYS NEAR

Battery D Members Hear They May Be Granted Furloughs.

Mansfield Battery D members of Ohio's 37th Division, weary after nearly two months in the field in the Louisiana mock war, were cheered today to hear that furloughs may be granted to as many as 50 per cent of their group at the end of maneuvers.

The 37th plodded to Flatwoods, La., today to assemble for the return trip to its home base at Camp Shelby, Miss. It will start back for Camp Shelby around next Sunday.

Special regulations have been invoked which will allow the commanding officers of the 37th Division to grant furloughs to as much as half of their command. Ordinarily, furloughs can be taken by only 15 per cent at the same time.

Enlisted men are allowed 30 days furlough per year and may take 15 days after serving six months.

ASKS FOR WAGE, SALARY CONTROL

Eccles Says Congress Must Prevent Rise, Urges Price Ceilings.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON.— Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board testified today that whether wage and salary controls were included in the administration's price ceiling bill, congress could not allow them to rise discriminately "and be realistic about preventing inflation."

Recommending prompt enactment of the price measure to the house banking committee, Eccles said wages and salaries were the main factors in prices. His view that they should be controlled during the present emergency coincided with that of Bernard M. Baruch, World war head of the war industries board, and a recent witness before the committee. Price Administrator Leon Henderson, however, has consistently opposed their inclusion in the price bill.

Eccles also told the committee that industrial strife during "times of national peril" was "intolerable," because every unit of the nation's productive machinery was needed for defense and civilian needs.

He included attempt to settle

SWOC ACTS ON WORK HALTING

Unauthorized Stoppage To Bring Dismissal "Without Recourse."

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— The CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee notified its northeastern locals today that members who call unauthorized work stoppages and are dismissed will have no recourse to the union.

Clinton S. Gloden, SWC northeastern regional director, said "a few instances" of such stoppages had occurred in recent weeks.

The northeastern district includes part of Ohio.

HUNT 'ANGLES' IN SLAYING OF WOMAN GOLFER

Police Believe More Than Robbery Motive Behind Miley Shooting.

MOTHER ALSO WOUNDED

Crawls Quarter of Mile To Report Mysterious Attack at Kentucky Club.

(By United Press)

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Police worked on undisclosed "other angles" in addition to the originally held robbery motive today in an effort to solve the slaying of Marion Miley, 27, one of the nation's top-flight women golfers, in a mysterious country club shooting.

The pretty golf star was found dead yesterday morning, with bullet wounds in her forehead and back, in the second floor apartment of her mother, Mrs. Fred Miley, 50, in the white-columned Lexington country club, one of the most exclusive in central Kentucky.

Shot three times in the stomach, Mrs. Miley walked and crawled a quarter of a mile to summon police.

Search for the slayer or slayers was spurred by offer of a $1,000 reward for their apprehension by the Lexington Country club supplemented by an undisclosed amount from state funds offered by Gov. Keen Johnson at Frankfort.

The state reward was estimated to run $1,500. The Frankfort Country club added another $50 to bring the estimated total reward to more than $2,500.

Lexington and Fayette county authorities, who got a disconnected account of the crime from Mrs. Miley before she became unconscious, at first believed the two masked assailants had sought the proceeds of a dance given at the country club Saturday night.

Discovery of untouched cash—about $75 in a closet in Mrs. Miley's room and $60 in a desk at the club house—led police, however, to believe that robbery was not the sole motive.

Police questioned Mary Stone, 21-year-old brunette, arrested in a downtown hotel room in which a blood-stained blanket was found but said later that she was charged only with vagrancy and had no connection with the slaying.

County Patrol Chief J. W. McCord said a man's thumb print etched in blood on the wall of the

JAM OFFICE

Scores Flock To Auto Club as License Deadline Nears.

Scores of motorists jammed the Auto club office to the doors today in a desperate last-minute effort to obtain driving permits for 1942.

Fourteen clerks were operating a battery of typewriters as the next to the last day of the sale got under way, with approximately 2,000 licenses to be issued before 8 p. m. tomorrow.

Bureau of Motor Vehicles officials warned motorists today that operating motor vehicles without permits after Tuesday is a violation of state law and subject to a maximum penalty of $500 fine and six months in jail.

Frank Beverstock, local deputy registrar, announced that the Auto club office would be open until 8 p. m. today and tomorrow.

Church Women to Make Apple Butter on Lexington Lawn

Women of the Presbyterian church in Lexington are going to don their aprons Friday and make oldfashioned apple butter on the church lawn to help pay for a furnace in their new church.

They literally will be killing two birds with one stone, for they plan to use scrap wood from the old church building for fuel, thereby cleaning up the lawn while they make the apple butter for sale. The old church is being torn down.

With three kettles heating over the fires on the church lawn, the women hope to make at least 35 gallons of butter, according to Mrs. Walter Shafer, chairman of the Ladies Aid committee in charge of the "butter making."

They have already received several orders for the apple butter at $1 a gallon, so they expect the day's work to produce at least $35 for the furnace fund. The butter will sell for 25 cents a quart.

Apples and cider for the butter will be donated by church members and others in the community who have big fruit crops this fall. The women will start work early in the day and plan to stay at it until evening.

A new Presbyterian church was built recently in the village and is ready for occupancy.

Goal of Next Nazi Drive?

Marriage of Girl, 14, Boy, 15, Puts Officials In Quandary

(By United Press)

DETROIT — Authorities completed their investigation today of a "tragedy of adolescence" involving a 14 year old girl and a 15 year old boy, but were unable to decide how to resolve it.

Dorothy Hilliker, a student in the eighth grade, loved Freddie Hancock, her class-mate, so desperately, they discovered, that she felt she had to make sure of him before some other girl got him.

Therefore, she told authorities, she informed him that she was going to have a baby and that he was the father. She told her parents the same story. They consulted his parents. The children went to Bryan, O., on Sept. 14 where they falsified their ages to obtain a license, and were married by a justice of the peace with their parents' consent.

Floyd Crichton, chief of police of suburban Lincoln Park, where both families lived, said the parents did not call in a physician

MOVE TO TRY 'DAYTON PLAN' IN MANSFIELD

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

New Meeting Scheduled For Study of 7-Point Program To Ease Situation.

A movement to adopt the "Dayton plan" to alleviate hardships resulting from employment dislocation in industrial plants here due to the defense program was under way in Mansfield today.

Representatives of Mansfield business, labor, management and civic government considered the "Dayton plan" Saturday night at a meeting sponsored by the Richland County Industrial Unions council.

Growing out of the meeting was the appointment of a temporary committee which is to meet at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday morning to further detailed organization of such a plan here.

The suggestion came after Robert Glenn of Cleveland, director of the labor supply branch of the Office of Production Management in Ohio, declared that Mansfield "presented one of the gloomiest pictures of labor displacement" in his records.

The seven-point program embraced in the "Dayton plan" were outlined to the group by Arthur Garfield, Dayton CIO union representative. These seven points were:

1. A survey to be made of machine tools and equipment available for conversion to defense work.

2. Recommendation that manufacturers pool resources permitting them to jointly accept larger defense orders which singly they are unable to fill.

3. Provision that skilled workers moving from plants to accept temporary defense jobs be returned to their present employers without loss of seniority rights when present employers resume production.

4. Cooperation with the OPM to obtain services of its sub-contracting service providing national defense contracts for smaller plants.

5. Cooperation in regional and state-wide conference with labor and governmental representatives to formulate programs to place skilled workers in defense contract holding industries.

6. Arrangement with the WPA to finance a local training school to train displaced workers for de-

TAXED ON TAX

Ohioans Likely To Be Paying Sales Tax on Luxury Levy.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—It appeared today that Ohio consumers will have to pay "a tax upon a tax" when the new federal law levies a selected list of "luxury" articles becomes effective Wednesday.

Tax experts in the office of Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert said unofficially that the 3 per cent state sales tax will be computed on the cost of the article plus the 10 per cent federal levy which goes on many consumer articles.

The legal experts pointed out that under the Ohio sales tax law, the levy is computed on the selling price of the article and that the new federal tax is imposed upon the vendor and therefore becomes part of the selling price.

A formal ruling by the attorney general on the question has been requested by State Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt.

PLANE CRASHES

Pilot, Passenger Killed As Craft Falls Near Chillicothe.

CHILLICOTHE—(ANS)—A small plane crashed on a farm two miles north of Chillicothe, killing William H. Kuhn, 28, the pilot, and Everett Tewksbury, 28.

A witness said the plane had been stunting and had gone into a tail spin. Kuhn, a shoe worker, was a native of Fostoria.

SANDUSKY, O. — (AP) — John Clark, AFL organizer, said 200 AFL office workers at the Plum Brook Ordnance plant deferred a strike when the E. B. Badger & Cons Co., general contractors, and the office of production management agreed to start conferences today to consider grievances.

Four Northern Cities, Sicily, Rhodes Are Hit

Rome Avoided as RAF Flies Across Alps To Attack; Russians Claim Rout of Germans In Ukraine; Leningrad Defenders Report Advance.

British warplanes pounded Italy overnight in the greatest raids there of the war, attacking four mainland cities, four in Sicily and the island city of Rhodes with a toll of at least 66 killed and wounded.

Premier Mussolini's high command acknowledged 11 persons were killed and 55 wounded in the nine-city assault. In addition two other persons were killed in the blackout.

The RAF avoided Rome — despite earlier expectations that the Fascist capital might be bombed in reprisal for an Axis attack on Cairo, holy city of the Moslem world—but showered high-explosive bombs and incendiaries on Genoa, Spezia, Turin and Savona Marina on the Italian mainland. Some of the casualties were at a fifth mainland city, Milan, but the injuries and fatalities were from anti-aircraft shells and traffic accidents.

Also attacked were the Sicilian towns of Palermo, Trapani, Marsala and Castel Vetrano, and the Italian island of Rhodes in the eastern Mediterranean.

One RAF plane was reported shot down by anti-aircraft fire at Turin, with the crew of five killed.

Reports from Bern said large numbers of planes passed over Switzerland during the night, indicating that the raiders flew over the Alps from Britain on a 1,200-mile round trip journey.

In the Russian campaign, now in its 15th week, Soviet dispatches reported the rout of two German-allied Rumanian infantry brigades in bitter fighting on the southern (Ukraine) front, with more than 2,500 Rumanians killed and declared that Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red armies on the central front had recaptured 10 more villages in a drive from Yelnya to Smolensk.

Soviet troops were reported to have hurled the Germans from three lines of trenches and crossed the Desna river advancing on a six-mile front.

Around siege-girt Leningrad, in the north, Soviet front-line reports said the city's defenders were "attacking incessantly, then driving forward without respite."

A Russian correspondent telegraphed from behind the siege lines that "we have already cracked the enemy's advance."

Advices reaching London said that German warplanes were violently blasting railroads and highways on the Crimea peninsula, key to control of Black sea waters, but that Nazi troops were making little if any progress in attempts to cross the four-mile-wide Perekop isthmus.

Behind this gateway to the Crimea, the Russians were de-

BENES PREDICTS WAVE OF TERROR

Warns of Reprisals Against Czechs, After Reports of Spreading Unrest.

(By United Press)

LONDON — Edouard Benes, president of the Czech National Committee, predicted today that Germany is about to launch "a new wave of terror" in Czechoslovakia.

Benes' warning came as reports from Europe told of a spreading wave of unrest, sabotage, terrorism and passive resistance in the Nazi-occupied countries.

Benes, speaking before a forum club luncheon, called attention to German action in sending into Czechoslovakia Reinhard Heydrich, chief aide to Heinrich Himmler, head of the gestapo.

"You have heard what is going on in the Czech lands," he said. "A state of emergency has been proclaimed. The chief of the so-called government protectorate has been arrested and the most sanguinary of Himmler's lieutenants has been sent to Prague.

"A new wave of terror will follow."

There were indications that opposition to German rule by millions of persons was attaining such proportions that it threatened to constitute a new front with which Adolf Hitler must contend while his armies are fighting the stubborn, resilent Russian forces in the east.

SHOOS SMOG

Pittsburgh Embarks on Plan To Eliminate Smoke.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—This steel capital, twitted about its smoke for 150 years, embarks Wednesday on a new attempt to rid its atmosphere of soot.

A smoke-elimination ordinance adopted by council in July becomes effective October 1 for industrial and commercial establishments. Regulations will extend gradually during a two-year period to embrace all Pittsburgh.

Beginning Wednesday, factories, mills, store buildings, laundries and apartment buildings will be prohibited from emitting smoke containing more than 40 per cent soot. Furnaces installed in homes henceforth must be of a smoke-elimination type or burn smokeless fuel.

STABBING AT TIFFIN PROBED

Grand Jury Gets Case After Man Pleads Guilty To Count.

TIFFIN — (UP)— The Seneca county grand jurvy will investigate the stabbing of Lester Cook, 32, painting contractor, who is in serious condition with an abdominal wound.

Cook was said by police to have been knifed by Harlan Cornett, 37, his cousin and an employe, during a scuffle when Cook attempted to quiet Cornett who had been drinking.

Cornett pleaded guilty to a charge of cutting with intent to kill at a preliminary hearing before Mayor Charles S. Yingling.

Winter? Well, It's Chilly and County Buys Two Snow Plows

While Mansfielders shivered today in temperatures that hinted old weather is just around the corner, Richland county commissioners began preparing for winter by authorizing the purchase of two snow plows for the county road department.

Getting his road equipment ready to battle drifts in a few weeks, County Engineer Howard Sword will buy the plows from the Burch corporation, Crestline, for $419 each. Two used plows will be traded in to reduce the price to $319 per plow.

With the mercury at 54 degrees at noon today, there was a possibility of frost tonight if the skies clear. The weatherman predicted, however, that occasional light rain will fall tonight and Tuesday and that the temperature will begin to rise Tuesday afternoon.

A cold northwest wind blew on Mansfield Sunday afternoon following a light shower which brought only three-hundredths of an inch of moisture. The mercury dropped quickly from 84 degrees Sunday to 44 last night.

The rainfall was not enough to revive scorched pasture lands and lawns, but it moistened corn so that farmers will have less trouble handling it. Fodder has been so dry that it shattered badly when it was cut and the storm last Thursday left fences and roads littered with corn blades.

21 From County Leave Today for Military Service

Twenty-one more Richland countians went to the Fort Hayes induction station in Columbus this morning to begin their service in the army, one of them leaving from Cleveland.

Sent to the induction center directly from Cleveland was John O. Purdy, Mansfield, who failed to report for induction several weeks ago and was ordered to the army by federal authorities at Cleveland.

Donald Keller, Shelby, scheduled to leave today from the board 3 district, was unable to report because of illness. He will be inducted with the next group of selectees to leave in October. Clerk Charles Kirkwood of the board said today.

Board 1 in Mansfield sent eight youths this morning, while six left from the Board 2 area, and seven from the Board 3 district. Twenty of them went to Columbus in a special bus from Mansfield.

They are the only selectees to leave Richland county during September. Three colored youths will leave here Oct. 8 and 126 white selectees on Oct. 27. Richland countians take their final examinations and receive their camp assignments at Fort Hayes.

CHAPTER XIII

"Aw go thip a thods thomewhere, funny face!" she commanded, impudently. "And button up your button!"

That reference was to Lillian's nose, cutest thing about her. It did have the daintiest hint of being pug. The officious girl rushed up quickly, put a thumb on it and pushed hard.

The push was enough to throw Lillian suddenly off balance.

She had all but fallen, reaching out involuntarily. Her hand had struck the other girl's body.

The blond aggressor laughed hilariously then followed up with a push and a scuffling of arms and hands. A chair tripped them, and together they sprawled off a table onto the floor.

More people had come running, shrieking. The tipsy, crazy blond was beside herself with hilarity now. She jumped up to stand over Lillian a moment in prize fighter pose, shadow boxing and shaking her shoulder-length curls and uttering threats in mock severity from one corner of her mouth. Altogether she was playing to an audience, showing off, making a spectacle of herself as only a rowdy ruffian girl can do. From the floor Lillian saw only a melange of legs and feet until Dallas picked her up and carried her out, and even then the blond girl ran out guffawing and taunting and trying to make love-talk to Dallas.

But it hadn't come easy. They were slowing down at the Mayfield gate, in fact, before she paid the slightest attention to what Dal was saying. He talked earnestly, pleadingly, and the tag end of his plea seemed as if he were actually trying to excuse the girl's outrageous actions. Lillian had just leaped out of his car and slammed the door without a word, and run on to face the people in her mother's kitchen.

Here alone in her room now, she couldn't even remember when Dallas had put the strip of tape on her face, so furious had she been at him.

Lillian hadn't expected to sleep a wink. Youth and its healthful vigor triumphed, however, and she was still breathing deeply when awakened by a tap on her door.

"Yes?" she aroused. "Come in."

"This Jason, Miss Lillian," the negro's voice answered. "A package come. It say—it say 'pursh-able'."

"Perishable? Whatever can—oh."

"A young 'livery boy brung it. It's big."

"Throw it away, Jason."

"Now Miss Lillian, don't act like that! You kin look at it then if'n you don't want it, why—"

She understood. Jason would never let her be unmannerly. She ordered him to bring it in. It was, surprisingly, four feet long and made an arm full for Jason, who cut the string for her then departed in dignity.

So he was apologizing with flowers! Taking her to a honky dance hall to be insulted—her, Lillian Mayfield! — and acting contrite about it this morning. Well, she wouldn't accept the apology. He'd have to explain. The Mayfields didn't have to subject themselves to any such—

She pouted sleepily, half angrily, for five minutes or so, thinking unhappy thoughts. Then pure curiosity won. She could at least look at the flowers. After that she would have Jason take them over to the hospital.

* * *

They were great red roses with incredibly long stems, and they numbered two dozen. The sheer size of them overwhelmed her for a moment. She stared, then automatically reached for the tiny envelope tied securely with ribbon to the stems. The envelope held more than a card. Something bulkier and hard was in it.

"Oh-h-h-h-h!"

Wide-eyed, Lillian beheld a diamond solitaire in her palm. Thad Monroe! She was—really was—engaged to him! Of course she remembered, now. He had asked her last night and she had accepted. She almost smiled at herself—imagine any girl's forgetting she was engaged! But this situation was different. It wasn't as if—

All at once Lillian jumped up out of bed but she wasn't at all sure what to do. The seriousness of this whole situation began to sink in. She tried on the ring. The stone was large and exquisitely mounted. Hastily she read Thad's note:

"With Love, and love, and love—forever."

It was like Thad to present his engagement ring in unconventional manner. Holding it now gave her a distinct sense of fright. It was too beautiful, too real. She inspected the flower box. Air mail from Dallas, 200 miles away. Obviously he had telephoned there at midnight — hang the expense—to command a florist and get a jeweler out of bed in time for the dawn plane. Her town had no such diamonds as this; jewelery stores hadn't crowded in with the oil workers yet.

Jason tapped on the door. "Breakfas' serve, ma'am," said he, through the high transom again. "And Mistuh Dallas Tower, he telephone."

"Oh, he did, did he?"

"Yessum. I tol' him you still asleep."

Millicent had heard them talking and she came down the second floor hall now to Lillian's room.

"Awake, dear?" she greeted, smiling. "I was anxious to—why darling, what roses!"

What roses indeed! To dim even their glory, however, Lillian calmly held out the gorgeous ring.

"I might as well tell you, mother. Thad asked me to marry him. He said you had talked."

Mrs. Mayfield was as excited as a potential bride herself. Excited and disturbed and even a little tearful, far more demonstrative here in private than a Mayfield would have ever allowed in public. Yes, she knew. Thad had spoken. It was why she came to Lillian's room so early; to talk. No less confused by it all was Lillian herself, he should-have-been enthusiasm strangely missing.

Jason interrupted once more with a telephone call. "Mr. Dallas, he say it's powerful important, Miss Lillian."

"Tell him to — to go thip a thoda!"

"Ma'am? What you all say?"

"Just hang up the receiver, Jason."

"Ma'am? Is you right well, Miss Lillian?" Old Jason wasn't joking and Lillian knew it. Moreover, her mother looked surprised too. Lillian sighed and went to the telephone.

"Yes, thank you Dr. Tower, I feel much better this morning," she said, too formally, when he had greeted her. She interrupted what would have been his apologetic pleading again. "It was kind of you to inquire about my health. No doubt you are interested in all your — your girl friends' health. Goodbye."

That sounded flat, inadequate, she realized; maddening how she couldn't think of anything clever or sufficiently squelching when she needed to! Darn it.

Her mother was staring off at nothing, working her lips in and out nervously.

"Don't worry, mother. I—Thad and I—well, we intend to keep our engagement secret. For a long time."

"A—long time, dear?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

Lillian turned to her, and swallowed. Why indeed?

"Aren't you happy about it, dear?" the mother asked, gently. "Frankly, I am glad you plan not to rush in. I just don't however we can manage it! A wedding is very expensive, honey. You know that. I must—make some arrangements."

"Don't worry, mother."

"But some one has to! Lillian, you are now old enough to realize that our financial—old enough to be told your father's estate wasn't exactly—"

Millicent Mayfield awkwardly tried to get out the information that she was too poor to stage a "respectable wedding"; that she was in truth almost penniless and had been for several months, being tided over only by some unexpected little income from oil boom renters. She suffered acute embarrassment in all this. And —her daughter didn't hear it at all!

* * *

Lillian was as detached from her mother's talk as she had been from Dal Tower's explanations last evening. She concerned herself with the roses. Mother frequently talked "business," but mother herself had always forestalled Lillian from having any actual part in the family's financial affairs. Vaguely, there had always seemed enough even for a rather luxurious scale of living. Lillian had been given the feeling that it was discourteous or even unladylike to ask many questions of her widowed mother.

Mrs. Mayfield left the room presently, dressed for the street and went out in their family car. Old Jason, anticipating her by watching her movements, had it backed out, dusted and ready.

"You wants me to go and tote any packages fo' you, ma'am?"

"Thank you, no, Jason. Not this time."

"Yassum. I got plenty wuk to be doin' here anyhow."

His abject loyalty always touched her. Jason Weems was priceless as many another negro man or woman has been "down South." Mrs. Mayfield thought of that while driving to town. She had much to be thankful for. Much of heart value. Much of loyalty and love and tradition and beauty. But these things of late had come to be discounted in the mad rush for oil riches around this community, the unprecedented black boom.

She went directly to old Judge Brookfield, portly, gentlemanly friend of her late husband, whose roots were as deep in Rangeville as her own. To him she presented her personal problem. She had a daughter engaged. The daughter had to be married with Mayfield eclat. But the Mayfield assets totaled, alarmingly, less than $1,000.

"In cash, Judge Brookfield. I have only the $580 made in the emergency room renting. Every one took part, you know." She added that last by way of apology, as if it had been a mere Christian duty. She wanted him to see her state of near desperation, though. The cash on hand wouldn't keep her household more than two months at best and there was little promise of more until fall when there might be some income from her husband's meager investments—might be.

The old judge retreated in pompous talk.

"The utter revulsion one feels against outside capital is more and more manifest among Rangeville's body politic," said he. "Petroleum is a nefarious gamble. Mr. Mayfield would have been disdainful to this scrambling around us. It behooves us substantial citizens to keep aloof from it all. My advice to you is to maintain the charming dignity you have been accustomed to. Live quietly, gallantly, and in peace."

* * *

He had a great deal more of it. It impressed Millicent Mayfield, but it left her problem unsolved. He was like a father ordering her to watch her deportment and not concern herself with sullied money affairs.

Still confused when she left his office, and still worried, she was actually frowning when young and energetic Elwyn Buford met her. Elwyn wasn't long out of the Texas university law school himself and this oil boom in his home town had been a godsend to him. Rather shrewdly he probed Mrs. Mayfield, and in sudden emotional release she confided in him. He was neither shocked nor evasive.

"Hunh!" No need for you to do any worring, Miss Millie," he counseled, "if it's just money you need. Now I represent two companies, and you own a lot there on North Marshall street. Come on in my office and let me show you something easy."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1941

The real choice seems to be between intervention and civilization.

Of course some of the boys in training find things to gripe about—why should we expect them to be different from other people?

These are worrisome days for Orphan Annie, Daddy Warbucks and Punjab—but it's a safe bet that the author isn't going to destroy his meal ticket.

Time To Try Something Else

NOW COMES Priorities Director Donald M. Nelson with a declaration that the entire priorities system must be done over, to avoid the "national disaster" of destroying small business men.

But who is to do this—and what assurance is there that it will be any better done than it was in the first place?

Mr. Nelson, who has had experience and has demonstrated ability in the conduct of a large business enterprise, is executive director of SPAB (Supply Priorities and Allocations Board), but Vice President Wallace is chairman of that board and there are six other members.

Who is to say what shall be done and how it shall be done? Are the members of the board to accept the judgment of Mr. Nelson, or is each to put in an oar—including Vice President Wallace and Harry Hopkins?

What has happened to all the intricate machinery of preference ratings that were carefully worked out during the past year or so by government theorists and which resulted in such a maze of red tape and "lost" records that effective action was impossible?

Mr. Nelson now proposes that the agricultural implements industry be used as an experiment in granting specific allocations of raw materials instead of preference ratings, which have been a complete flop.

But if there is to be one "experiment" after another, following President Roosevelt's idea, "If it doesn't work we'll try something else," what will happen in the meantime to the large and small businesses, and their millions of employes, that will have to struggle through this period of experimentation?

A serious handicap, thus far, has been the disinclination of President Roosevelt to delegate full authority to some one capable man to coordinate and direct the many phases of the national defense program—which has been as badly bungled in some of its other departments as in the one to which Mr. Nelson directs attention.

More Home Canning This Year

GROCERS and hardware dealers in many states say they haven't seen so much canning for years. There seems to have been a general urge to put up fruits, jellies and vegetables, evidenced by the heavy run on fruit jars, metal jar tops and other requirements for canning. In some communities it has been hard to get enough stock to meet the demand.

As a result, millions of American homes will be well enough supplied with canned goods of their own to insure a pleasant and thrifty winter. And all those canned goods, if you take their owners' word for it, will be superior to any they can buy in the stores. They may be right, too. Perhaps there is some magic about it, but certainly Mother's canned peaches and pears and jellies, and so on, have a flavor that is hard to match anywhere else.

And those dozens of glasses and jars standing on their shelves, neatly labeled! Just to look at them rouses a jaded spirit and restores a lost appetite.

Prison Term for Drunken Driver

PENITENTIARY sentence for an intoxicated motorist whose drunken driving resulted in a fatality is rightly regarded by Common Pleas Judge Huston as "setting an example for people who drink and drive."

It may be safely assumed that the possible consequences of driving after drinking are seldom considered by motorists who are either habitually or occasionally guilty of this offense.

The spread of unsupervised liquor sales places into rural sections has increased the difficulties of enforcing the law against driving after drinking intoxicants and there has also been a public tolerance of this dangerous practice which may account for frequent failure to prevent obviously intoxicated persons from operating cars.

Drinking drivers who are not already helpless victims of the alcoholic habit will do well to think through to the prison term that may be the outcome of such a seemingly small matter as driving a car after having taken "a few drinks."

Giving WPA Workers a Trial

SOMEONE has hit upon a simple method of bridging the gap between WPA and employment in private industry. This is what happens:

WPA places selected men from its rolls in private plants, at no cost to employers, for periods of four weeks. If a man does a good job the employer puts him on the regular payroll and he is automatically off the WPA list. If he does not succeed he returns to that agency with his former standing.

The New Republic reported recently that the plan had been tried out quietly for a number of months in Chicago and some other cities and had worked well. It is obviously fair, since it gives a worker a chance to return to private industry and to prove his worth to an actual employer while allowing the latter to learn the man's value to him without delay and without the longer and more expensive hiring routine.

Modern Educational Trend

PUBLIC sentiment strongly favors "education," but it appears that some of the modern school methods are hard for the old-fashioned Americans to understand. At least a few of the experts seem to feel the same way about it.

For example, Prof. Douglas Bush of Harvard tells of a young woman who, when asked whether she could teach English history, said she could, because she had "had it twice, once in clay and once in sand." He also tells of a friend who, visiting a "progressive" school during recess, found the children all limp on the ground. They explained that they "had to play so hard in school that they had to rest during recess."

OUR ECONOMIC BLACKSMITH

One-Third of Income for Defense

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — One-third of every dollar of income—that is, one-third of our total national income—is the rate of expenditure for war purposes which high officials of the administration estimate, will have to be spent when defense spending reaches the present goal.

And this does NOT mean, they hasten to explain, that 33⅓ cents out of every dollar will be the maximum. What they are talking about is the PRESENT goal. It may be shifted considerably higher by the time it has been attained—in fact probably long before that.

"That's what we will have to do if we really mean what we say, and produce enough to beat Adolf Hitler," one of these officials added. "If we do not mean what we say we had better do some thinking right now and make the best terms with Hitler we can."

* * *

SO FAR, administration officials say, production for war purposes is far from satisfactory by any conceivable standard. It is not as much as we knew it had to be six months ago, whereas six months ago there was no adequate conception of what would be needed.

All of this, it is pointed out, is important not only to the man in the street or on the farm as a patriotic American, it is important to him as a consuming individual. This is true because when we reach the goal of one-third of all our national income being spent for war purposes, that means, roughly, that our standard of living will be reduced a considerable fraction of that amount.

It would be easy to say that the men who has been spending $180 a month to maintain his family would have to get along on $120 a month. But this is over-simplified. Perhaps the man has been saving $20 a month. If he diverts that $20 a month to buying the baby bonds that will be part of the reduction, and therefore will not affect his spending. Because that $20 a month will be put into war spending by the government.

* * *

NOR is it possible to make it as simple as this—that one-third of our annual income must be devoted to war expenditures; therefore the man with an income of $180 a month must give $60, either in bond-buying or taxes, to the government. It may be that with the rise in prices, which is sure to come, his income will be slightly increased. However, by the same token a rise in prices will mean that the government will have to spend just about that proportion more—in dollars—to get the production now considered necessary for war purposes.

But even if it is not possible to draw an accurate diagram of what will happen in any individual case, it is certain that things will get a lot worse before they get any better—that even after all the dislocations of industry and employment have been adjusted and settled there will be the sharp pinch caused by the hungry maw of the war machine.

There is just one element of satisfaction which may comfort the American worker and housewife during the tough period ahead. The tougher it is, the more of our income is devoted to war expenditures, and therefore the less we are able to spend on the things we would like to have, the sooner the war is likely to end—always assuming that we are goingto win. Any other assumption, naturally, is unthinkable for Americans, no matter what Lindbergh and the isolationist senators may say to the contrary.

Health and Diet

Victory Over Appendicitis

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DURING the last year the Metropolitan Life Insurance company reports that the death rate from appendicitis has dropped to the lowest on record. In 1929 the appendicitis death rate among millions of Metropolitan policy holders reached nearly 15 per 100,000, while in 1940 this toll dropped 40 per cent to 9 per 100,000.

This improvement is ascribed largely to the public health campaign which has brought home to the public a better understanding of the symptoms of the disease and the great importance of prompt surgical treatment.

Three Fallacies.

Three fallacies that remain imbedded in the public mind still contribute to keeping the death rate from appendicitis too high:

The first is the idea that an acute bellyache is just something you ate or is indigestion and the thing to do is to get rid of it by taking a cathartic.

The second is that the symptoms of appendicitis are so plain anyone can recognize them.

The third is that once recognized, appendicitis is easy to treat.

The truth is that appendicitis is one of the most tricky and treacherous and irregular of all diseases. It may appear in nearly any form of acute abdominal symptoms. The common mistake is to suppose that the pain of acute appendicitis is low down on the right side, just over where the appendix is.

As a matter of fact, the pain of appendicitis can be anywhere—high up in the back, over the kidneys or liver, or stomach, on the left side, or there may be no pain at all—only vomiting. Last year I pointed out that when Mr. Dempsey had appendicitis he resisted the diagnosis at first and said it was just an old-fashioned Dempsey family stomach-ache.

Abdominal Upset.

In view of this, any kind of upset in the abdominal region should be regarded with respect. Whatever else you do, under these circumstances, don't take a cathartic. A cathartic simply stirs the process up, ruptures the appendix and starts a peritonitis. It is hard to resist the temptation to take a cathartic because you feel as if everything would be all right if you could just get things moving. But resist it. If it simply is indigestion, things will soon begin to move anyhow. If you are far out on the prairie away from a doctor, just do nothing for several hours. Cases of acute appendicitis subside if they are left strictly alone.

Actually the number of deaths from appendicitis itself is relatively small. The high mortality is due to the complication of spreading peritonitis following a perforated appendix. It has been estimated that more than 80 per cent of the deaths from appendicitis are caused by this complication.

The immediate path for further gains lies in continuing to emphasize to the public the importance of prompt hospitalization, and avoiding the use of laxatives in the presence of abdominal pain.

Timely Editorial

For Children's Protection.

An anxious mother pleading with mature persons not to break down the natural fear of strangers a child should have for its own protection. She suggests that teachers of the lower grades warn their pupils not to accept rides with strangers.

Also she decries the practice of many grownups of making friends with children they do not know, giving them pennies, candy and offers of automobile rides. Such conduct on the part of normal persons is well-intentioned and kindly, but it is dangerous.

The warning is timely now that vicious persons are at large and have repeatedly committed crimes against children. That child is safest who has been taught to regard ALL strangers with distrust. It is an unfortunate condition, but must be accepted and planned against as one of the developments of our modern environment.—Detroit News.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Unloading Problem Delays Tanks Now Awaiting Shipment to Egypt

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It is no secret that charming Mr. Thomas G. Corcoran, now as enterprising at lobbying as he once was at Brain Trusting, got five Supreme Court justices to back him for the solicitor generalship. But it is a secret as to who these five justices are.

At the top of the list, in the opinion of almost every Washington observer, was Justice Felix Frankfurter, under whom Tommy the Cork studied at Harvard Law school. It was Frankfurter who helped Tommy get his first and most prized job as secretary to the late great Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. And it was Frankfurter who had placed, through Tommy, many young lawyers on the federal payroll—so many, in fact, that they have come to be known as the Frankfurter boys or the Hot-Dog club.

In turn Tom Corcoran was very instrumental in putting Felix Frankfurter on the Supreme Court. Therefore it was natural to suppose that Justice Frankfurter now would go to bat for his old pupil to be solicitor general.

However, Frankfurter did not support Corcoran at all. He was one of the minority justices who dissented.

* * *

Why He Dissented.

CORCORAN'S friends have this explanation of Frankfurter's failure to go to bat for his old student. Last year Frankfurter served on a special committee appointed by the president to make civil service recommendations regarding government jobs. One recommendation was to exempt various legal jobs from civil service in order to make it easy for the government to hire the type of lawyers it wanted.

Frankfurter also recommended that these government lawyers were to be approved by the solicitor general. This was the job which Tom Corcoran wanted—solicitor general. Friends further believe that Frankfurter did not want Corcoran to have this key post where he could select future lawyers for the government.

Stimson's "Egg Run."

THE U. S. AIR CORPS has started a lot of new special services as a result of the war in Europe—regular trips across the Atlantic, commuting run between New York and Washington, and various others not known to the general public.

But the most mysterious of all of these is "the egg run."

Nobody outside the air corps knows what this is, but here is the inside of the mystery. Almost every week-end, Secretary of War Stimson goes by plane from Washington to spend Saturday and Sunday at his Long Island place, "Highhold," where he has a farm.

And after the week-end is over, the secretary of war comes out to the airport to board his plane looking very dignified and clutching a little paper bag full of fresh eggs.

And great is the trepidation of the pilot for fear a jolt of the plane should spoil the week's breakfasts which Mr. Stimson is carrying back to Washington.

Tanks for Britain.

TANKS, the biggest need of the British after airplanes, will soon be rolling off the assembly lines at the rate of 1,000 per month. Even at the present rate of production tanks are beginning to pile up in New York.

Of these, 500 a month will go to the British, for tanks are what the British need more than anything else to take the offensive on the European continent.

But this very favorable picture has one bad drawback. It is the problem of getting the tanks to England or Egypt. The first problem is ships, but even after this is solved, there is the equally difficult problem of unloading. Tanks are so heavy that the ship's crane cannot unload them; it takes a heavy crane on the dock.

Many cranes in English ports have been bombed, and in Suez there is only one. Thus, although the Turks have been pleading with the British for tanks, and declined last spring to enter into an agreement with the British because the British could not supply tanks, U. S. ships carrying tanks may not be able to unload them for weeks at Suez.

The first U. S. ships sent to Suez took more than four weeks to unload, and the army fears that in unloading tanks now, a whole line of ships may have to wait for days—easy targets for Nazi bombers from Crete.

That is why the army is especially interested in the new flat-bottomed boats which the navy finally was persuaded to build—much against its will. Tanks can be loaded onto these semi-scows under their own power, instead of being lowered into the hold by a crane. Then, arriving at the other side, the tanks can back off the scow under their own power.

Note—The army also is much interested in these flat-bottomed boats for purposes of landing invading troops in a hurry. Artillery and tanks can be run off boats of this kind the minute they touch shore.

No Rooms for Rent.

A YOUNG WOMAN is looking for a bed and a bureau and a place to wash her silk stockings. She has a job but she hasn't a home. She came to Washington, thinking it would be hard to find a job. She was wrong. And easy to find a room. Again wrong.

Whether she is a blond from Boston or a brunet from Baton Rouge, she and her civil service sisters are looking for any respectable place that has a bed in the corner and a number on the front door. They want a place to rest and an address for the letters from home.

In normal times, the government brings to Washington as many as 2,000 new workers a year. Today the figure is 2,000 a month. Civil service commission estimates that in the next 16 months, 35,000 more defense workers will come to Washington.

And most of them are women.

Where will they sleep? A big man from Texas thinks he has the answer. Jesse Jones, who has as many government agencies under his wing as there are hotels in Washington, has told one of these agencies to build a women's dormitory for defense workers.

So Defense Homes corporation, a subsidiary of RFC, has drawn up plans and bought a site for the new home for women. It will be located on the north side of town, near "Embassy Row" on Sixteenth street.

With a total of 750 rooms, some single and some double, the dormitory will house no less than 1,000 women. Under government control, rents will be moderate. Already one New York agent made a bid to take over operation of the hostel, but when not allowed to control rents, he backed out.

Rules will be liberal in respect to using electric irons, and electric toasters, but not in respect to entertaining young men. Jesse Jones will be protective god-father to all 1,000.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It's a strange town.

Although many states and most communities have had their battles with slot machines and even pin ball games, congress, for the first time in history, gave them an official nod in the $3,500,000,000 national defense tax bill. They did it by slapping a tax on them—$10 a year if they are simple "games of skill" and $50 a year if they are the "one armed bandits."

This doesn't mean, of course, that congress has legalized anything outlawed by any state or local government. If congress hadn't slapped an income tax on ill-gotten gains, there would be a lot of gamblers, bootleggers, racketeers and other criminal gentry roaming around today without their prison records. Probably in another year, some two-bit racketeer who has been playing his machines over the heads of mayors, sheriffs and governors for years will find himself in the clink for failure to pay his $50 tax.

Secrets Are Shushed Around.

A COURT martial in the army or navy, and censorship, are two subjects that always make news, but I know cases of both that haven't got above the whisper stage. In recent weeks there have been cases of "court martial" in the navy on both coasts—and the charge was that the wives of naval officers on sea duty met them at the dock when the ship hove to.

Here's the why of the court martial. All movements of the fleet these days are secret. All navy mail from men on sea duty is censored. So how could these wives show up at ports far away from home unless somebody was telling secrets or sneaking out uncensored messages? The penalty, in most such instances, is that a man is dropped a hundred numbers or so on the promotion lists. I don't know if anyone has been found guilty yet. I doubt it. If any court martial officials can ferret out where navy (and army) wives grow their grapevines, they'd better get out of the service and go to work for J. Edgar Hoover.

* * *

Hollywood Bullseye.

YOU gotta hand it to Hollywood. Right in the middle of all that senate hoopla about the movies turning out war propaganda, Warner Brothers announced that the world premiere of "One Foot in Heaven" would be held in Washington. If you are not up on your best sellers, that's the film version of Hartzell Spence's book about the trials and tribulations of a Methodist minister in several midwestern hamlets. The minister was Hartzell's father, Rev. William Spence, and the picture was supervised by Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, of New York.

In the world of the theater, as well as on the floor of congress, that is what is known as perfect timing.

It's Nice to Be President.

TRAFFIC got so bad in Washington that President Roosevelt had to pause in his consideration of world affairs to declare that he would like to see something done about it. It wasn't just one of those off-hand quips of the president's, either. He wrote a letter to the new police chief, Edward J. Kelly, which, in effect, said that traffic is terrible; do something about it. Hearing things like that makes every man want to be president.

Two Rows of Peanuts

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LAST spring, to satisfy the curiosity of our little boys, I bought a package of peanut seed and planted two short rows in the garden. Many people, north of the Mason-Dixon line, have never seen peanuts grow. It has frequently happened that strangers, even adults pause beside those rows of bushy, low-crowned plants and inquire, "What's that stuff?"

When I pull up a plant by the roots and shake off the dirt "Peanuts!" they ejaculate. Indeed each root has a good double handful of life-sized peanuts on it.

The plant is peculiar, because although its fruit is part of the stem, it buries it beneath the ground. Each stem has four dark green leaves. Small yellow blooms appear at the joints of the leaf stems. Sometimes growers cover the blooms with soil, but if it is not done, the plant itself will put out shoots that bend to earth and when they have dug themselves in, enlarge to form the nutty seeds, in their gray-white shells.

As the name indicates, peanuts belong to the pea family. They are legumes, very rich in food value, both protein and oil. In fact, down in Virginia, as I traveled through, I was told that the reason Virginia hams are noted far and wide for their delicious flavor is not all in the curing, but largely because they fatten the pork on peanuts.

Peanuts are native to this hemisphere. They were known and used in prehistoric times. They have been found in old tombs in Peru. They came to us from Brazil, but most of the world's supply of these hearty goobers grows now in British India, China and Africa. They grow easily wherever soil is rich and climate it warm enough.

This is my first experience in growing peanuts. From our one package of seed we will have perhaps a half peck. We shall roast our harvest, and if they are as good as they look, perhaps we'll plant more next year. Hot roasted peanuts from one's own garden—hot peanuts and popcorn—our family likes such things. Then, too, we aim to make our farming as diversified as possible—to come as near as we can to feeding ourselves.

BRITISH RAIN BOMBS ON ITALY IN BIG ATTACK

Sicily, Rhodes Also Hit; Reds Claim Rout of Germans In Ukraine Area.

clared to be holding stoutly, wiping out German parachute troops and shelling the Germans to a standstill behind a vast death-trap of minefields at the isthmus bottleneck.

Adolf Hitler's high command, silent on the Crimea operations, reported that German and Italian troops had out-flanked and destroyed three Soviet divisions—about 45,000 men—in a battle northeast of the Nazi-held city of Dnieperopetrovsk.

The high command said the Russians, caught in swampy terrain, suffered heavy and bloody losses, with 13,000 Red troops taken prisoner so far

Meanwhile, authorized quarters in Berlin denied Germany was attempting peace "feelers" or negotiations, countering rumors that the Reich was contacting the French or Turkish governments in that respect.

"Fairy tales . . . especially at a time when Germany is on an unexampled march to victory," a Nazi spokesman said.

Heavy naval action marked the war's developments over the weekend.

Premier Mussolini's high command asserted that torpedo-firing Italian planes sank three British cruisers in an attack on a convoy in the central Mediterranean. A battleship, another large ship, a destroyer and six smaller ships also were damaged, the Italians reported.

Presumably describing the same action, the London admiralty said an important convoy had been successfully taken through the central Mediterranean "despite consistent attacks by the enemy air force."

A single ship in the convoy was damaged so badly it had to be scuttled, the admiralty said, and one of the escorting British warships suffered slight damage.

Moscow reported that seven German ships had been sunk or damaged, including a cruiser, three destroyers, two transports and a tanker, while the Germans countered with a claim that Nazi shore batteries set a Russian cruiser afire and that dive-bombers hit a Soviet battleship near Kronstadt naval base, guarding the sea approach to Leningrad.

Declare Kharkov Fortified Town

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Soviet city of Kharkov has been declared a fortified town by the Russians and will therefore be defended street by street if necessary, the Vichy radio declared today, according to a New York pickup by NBC.

Quoting Stockholm dispatches, the broadcast said that Nazi troops already are fighting on the outskirts of Kharkov.

(Editor's Note: The British Broadcasting company picked up a Lyons broadcast saying that German troops were already reducing the suburbs of Kharkov. Latest authoritative reports in London said that Russian troops were still holding a line at Poltava, 70 miles southeast of Kharkov.)

Aid Missions in Moscow Air Raid

BERLIN —(INS)— The American and British delegations to Moscow, headed by W. Averell Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook experienced their baptism of German bombs in Moscow during the night when the Luftwaffe pounded military objectives in the Red capital.

The German war communique told of raids on both Moscow and Leningrad by strong air force squadrons and also announced the annihilation of three Red army divisions deep in the Ukraine.

Contrary to some previous raids on Moscow, last night's attack was confined to certain districts where German observers reported "heavy effects, explosions and flames."

Japs Claim They Cut Strategic Railway

BULLETIN.

TOKYO —(INS)— The Japanese News Agency (Domei) reported today that Japanese forces entered the city of Chuchow at dawn, cutting the strategic Canton-Hankow railroad.

CHUNGKING—(AP)—The Japanese have lost at least 20,000 men out of the 80,000 with which they launched their drive for Changsha, and the Hunan province capital still is in Chinese hands, an army spokesman declared this afternoon.

(The Japanese army announced at Shanghai Saturday that Changsha had been captured after hand-to-hand fighting and has reported since that the attacking forces have pushed through the city and about 22 miles further south.)

The battle for Changsha still is raging in full fury, with the Japanese being held about seven miles from its limits, the Chinese spokesman reported.

DOG MOTHERS POSSUMS

HANFORD, Cal.—(U.P.)—Fuzzy, 12-year-old Pekinese dog, belonging to M. S. Reeves, mothered five baby possums from the time their real parent died until they could be fed milk and liver. The young possums have been domesticated without difficulty.

GOT HIS LEG, ALMOST GOT AWAY AND NOW HE SLEEPS WITHOUT IT

LONDON —(INS)— Wing Commander Douglas Bader, legless RAF ace who was shot down and is now a prisoner of the Nazis, nearly succeeded in escaping from his captors and as a result went to bed for a while minus one of his artificial legs, London newspapers reported today.

As reported by the newspapers and by radio accounts heard in London, when Bader was shot down one of his legs was ruined. Through the Luftwaffe he sent a message to his wife to send him one of his spares.

Soon afterward, the spare leg was dropped by parachute from a British plane and delivered to Bader at a German air field.

That night the men at the Nazi airdrome celebrated the leg's arrival, according to the accounts. There was a little drinking and Bader danced around and turned somersaults. But when the party broke up Bader could not be found—not even on the airdrome grounds.

Later he was discovered in a hayloft ,some distance down the road. So, for the rest of the time that Bader remained in that area, the Germans took away one of his legs every night and returned it to him the next morning.

Unconfirmed reports circulated here regarding conditions in Italy, where morale was reported deteriorating rapidly.

Nazi Authorities Arrest Premier

BERLIN —(AP)— General Alois Elias, premier of the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, was held today on charges of premeditating high treason as Nazi authorities took steps to curb certain elements among the Czech population which they said had committed acts hostile to the Reich.

Moving quickly, Reinhard Heydrich, ace trouble-shooter of the German secret police, clamped a state of civil emergency on six districts of Bohemia-Moravia within 24 hours after relieving 68-year-old Baron Konstantin von Neurath as Reich's protector. Von Neurath was said to have asked a temporary leave because of ill health.

No details were released on measures to be taken under the state of emergency, but it generally includes a curfew, closing of theaters and other public gathering places, summary executions, exceptionally heavy prison terms and confiscation of property for acts regarded as offenses against the order and security of the state.

HELEN SMITH TELLS OF RECENT MARRIAGE

Announcement Made Sunday Afternoon at Robert Ort Home of Nuptial Vows Read for Miss Smith and Lee Bechtel, Former Mansfielder.

AT A TEA given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Ort, 705 Andover road, 60 guests learned of the recent marriage of Miss Helen Smith, of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Galion, and Lee K. Bechtel of Canton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bechtel, 13 North Mulberry street. The ceremony was performed Sept. 13 at 3:30 p. m. at the home of the bride's parents in Galion. Dr. Edwin Gunnemann officiated at the ceremony which was read before an improvised altar of palms, ferns and beauty baskets of gladioli.

For her wedding the bride was attired in a blue wool costume suit, with mink and Kona accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of Talisman roses. Mrs. E. A. Allison, sister of the bride from Columbus, served as her matron-of-honor. She wore a Kona wool dress with black accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. J. E. Culler of Cleveland was Mr. Bechtel's best man.

Mrs. Smith appeared at her daughter's wedding in a navy blue chiffon frock with matching accessories. Her corsage was of red rose buds. Following the ceremony a reception was held for members of the immediate families. Dinner was served buffet style from a long table decorated with garden flowers and centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Bechtel is a graduate of Galion high school and the Mansfield Business Training school. She has been employed as a secretary at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Bechtel, a former Mansfield resident, is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is now employed at the Indian Refining company in Canton. After Nov. 1 the couple will reside in Canton.

Assisting Mrs. Ort at the tea which was held from 3 to 5 p. m. were Mrs. Charles Smith, mother of the bride, and the bride's three sisters, Mrs. Calvin Smith, and Miss Lois Smith of Galion and Mrs. E. A. Allison of Columbus. Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. John Dir poured at the tea table which was decorated with gladioli and a centerpiece of snapdragons, carnations, and roses arranged around gladioli leaves. On either side of the leaves in yellow pompons were the names, Helen and Lee. The date of the wedding was made with colorful ribbon and placed beside the gladioli leaves.

Out-of-town guests attending the tea were Mrs. T. E. Culler, Cleveland, Mrs. T. R. Thompson, Dayton, Mrs. Richard Hennuse, Marion, Mrs. Harry Walters, Bucyrus, Mrs. Raymond Nees, Shelby, Mrs. Novak, Canton, Mrs. Harriet Lawwell, Columbus and Miss Kathleen Eichler of Galion.

Oct. 19 Chosen For Wedding of Miss Ruby Myers

At a party given Saturday night by Mrs. H. W. Wolfelt of Galion, the date of the approaching marriage of her daughter, Ruby Myers, to Richard Bowden of Mansfield, son of W. W. Bowden, 24½ West Fourth street, was announced to the 16 guests present.

The date, Oct. 19, was revealed during the refreshment hour in miniature individual glasses of honey. It was written on small pieces of paper and placed in the paraffin that sealed the honey glasses.

During the evening the guests played games that were directed by Mrs. Charles Huck of Mansfield. Those receiving prizes were Mrs. Ed Sprow, Mrs. Robert Eichhorn, Mrs. Myron Stowe, Mrs. Herman Christman, all of Galion, and Barbara Estes of Mansfield.

Refreshments were served by the bride-elect's sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Myers of Sewickley, Pa., and Mrs. Bertram Deibig of Galion.

Mr. Bowden is assistant circulation manager of The Mansfield News-Journal. Miss Myers is employed as bookkeeper for G. L. Rogers company, Mansfield.

Out-of-town guests present besides Mrs. Harry Myers of Sewickley, and Mrs. Huck of Mansfield, were Mrs. Estes, Dorothy Rogers and Alfaretta Bowden, all of Mansfield; Mrs. Ellis Angene of Bucyrus, and Mrs. Cy Bickle of Lansing, Mich.

Miss Pfaff Weds John Schuchmann In Home Service

Simplicity marked the home ceremony for the wedding of Miss Esther Helen Pfaff and John Edward Schuchmann, Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. H. E. Tropf officiated for the marraige in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends at the Pfaff home, 623 West Fourth street. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pfaff, of the West Fourth street address, and Mr. Schuchmann is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schuchmann, 42 Harker street.

Miss Pfaff wore a blue velveteen frock with white lace yoke for her wedding. Her accessories were in the wine shade and she wore an orchid corsags. Her only attendant was her sister, Martha, who wore a wine velveteen frock with blue accessories. Her corsage was composed of yellow rosebuds.

John Mohler served as best man for Mr. Schuchmann. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Louis Reynolds and George McNair sang several selections. Their numbers were "Ave Maria," "Romance," "Salute D'Amour," "To the Evening Star" and "Love Song."

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar in front of the fireplace. Ferns and gladioli were banked attractively and the scene was illuminated with lighted candelabra.

Mrs. Pfaff wore a printed sheer with navy accessories and Mrs. Schuchmann's frock was a printed silk with black accessories.

At the close of the wedding vows the guests were entertained with an informal reception and refreshments. Thirty were present. At a late hour in the day Mr. and Mrs. Schuchmann left for a trip to Florida. For traveling the bride wore a blue frock with beige coat and wine accessories. Upon their return they will reside at 843 Andover road. Mrs. Schuchmann was graduated from Mansfield high school and has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Schuchmann, co-owner of the Cameo, was graduated from Mansfield high school.

Couple Honored On Anniversary By Moose Lodge

Mr. and Mrs. William Zeller, 196 East Fourth street, held open house yesterday from 2 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary which they will observe tomorrow.

Members of the Moose Lodge honored the couple at a party recently. Dinner was served the couple and many of the lodge members at a long table decorated with yellow tapers and garden flowers and centered with a miniature bridal couple. As they entered the room the orchestra played the wedding march. The couple was presented with a bouquet of yellow roses. Mrs. Zellers was given a Moose pin by Mrs. Gay Roth and daughter Betty and the men's lodge presented Mr. Zeller with a gift.

Following the dinner a program, was presented in charge of Paul Ritchie. Vocal solos were presented by Miss Estelle Arras. A trumpet solo was played. Mrs. Paul Sonnefeld of West Virginia and Loretta and Louis Zeller of this city, children of Mr. and Mrs. Zeller attended the party.

FORMAL CEREMONY READ IN CRESTLINE

Miss Pauline Armstrong Becomes Bride of Howard E. Falk Sunday Afternoon In An Open Church Service At First Lutheran Church.

THE First Lutheran church in Crestline was the scene of the pretty wedding for a young Mansfield couple on Sunday afternoon. Miss Freada Pauline Armstrong, 100 Blymyer avenue, exchanged nuptial vows with Howard Eugene Falk, 97 Glenwood Heights, at 1:30 o'clock in the presence of many relatives and friends. Rev. S. A. Metzger officiated at the single ring service.

Palms, baskets of fall flowers and tall lighted candelabra decorated the altar. The pews were marked with dainty nosegays of fall flowers and guests were escorted to their seats by Edward Falk of Mansfield, brother of the bridegroom, and Lafayette Armstrong, of Crestline, brother of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, L. A. Armstrong of Crestline, the bride approached the altar in a lovely formal gown of ivory Grosse de Londre, made with a sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice which was trimmed with buttons from neckline to waist. Long pointed sleeves were buttoned at the wrist and the full skirt with a train stood out over a crinoline petticoat. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses and gypsophilia. Her Mary of Scot bonnet was made of ivory satin covered with shirred bridal illusion, edged with lilies of the valley. With this she wore a circular veil.

Miss Rebecca Armstrong, of Crestline, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a heavenly blue marquisette, made similar to the bride's and her tiny Mary of Scot bonnet was in pink. Mrs. Robert Frye, of Mansfield, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Annis Armstrong, of Crestline, the bride's sister, were bridesmaids. Mrs. Frye wore an aqua marquisette frock with tiered skirt. Sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves fashioned the bodice. Velvet sash and matching bows were the only trims. Miss Armstrong was attired in a similar frock of pink marquisette. Both young women wore Mary of Scot bonnets of matching color. Their arm bouquets were of mixed gladioli.

Nuptial music was played at the organ by Mrs. C. L. Speelman of Crestline, whose selections were "Just a Wearyin' for You," "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "O Promise Me." Miss Alice June Brown of Mansfield, sang "Ave Maria," "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Mrs. Armstrong attended her daughter's wedding in a navy blue dress with Defense blue hat and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Falk's frock was of black with dubonnet accessories, and her corsage was of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Susie Janis home, Park avenue west road for 60 guests. A four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple decorated the center of the long table. Ivory and white appointments were used and the home was decorated with bouquets of fall flowers.

Later in the day the couple left for an eastern trip. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue suit with Defense blue hat and navy accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Mrs. Falk is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Armstrong of Crestline, and is a supervisor at the Mansfield General hospital. She was graduated from Crestline high school. Mr. Falk, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and Ohio State university, is employed by the Railway Express. After Oct. 5 the young couple will reside at 100 Blymyer avenue.

Many out-of-town guests were in attendance from Ft. Wayne, Ind., Van Wert, Toledo, Sandusky, Findlay, Mansfield, Galion and Rochester, N. Y.

Fete Newlyweds At Family Party At Park Pavilion

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harlan, who were married in July, were feted at a party Saturday evening at the North Lake park pavilion. Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Latimer and daughter, Mrs. Gray Adkins, were host and hostesses to 37 relatives of the young couple. Before her marriage Mrs. Harlan was Yvonne Ramsey of Lucas.

Games and contests were the diversion and prizes were won by Mrs. Alice Painter and James Meer, who presented them to the honoree. The guests surprised Mr. and Mrs. Harlan with a shower of miscellaneous gifts.

At a late hour a luncheon was served at one long table centered with a three tiered wedding cake and two bouquets of fall flowers.

Sixteen Too Young for Marriage

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm 16 years of age, and a high school graduate. I've fallen in love with a young man—a magazine salesman—who wishes to marry me. My parents say I'm too young and that this young man couldn't support me in the way I have been accustomed to, although they do like him.

In a few months he is going away and I don't know whether to go against my parents' wishes and go with him, or stay home and do as they say. I'm sure he could support me.

UNDECIDED.

Sixteen is pretty young for a girl to assume the responsibility of marriage, particularly with a boy whose means of livelihood are as precarious as that of the magazine salesman. When a girl marries at 16 she gives up youth and all the good times that go with it. At 20, when she sees her friends having dates, going to parties, geting jobs, buying pretty clothes, and she is perhaps worn down with the care of children, doing all the housework and worrying over money, she becomes resentful and blames the boy she married as much as he blames her.

This is at least my point of view after reading thousands of letters which have come from girls who married at 16 or 17, too young to know what they're sacrificing. I hope for your own sake you'll wait until you're a little older.

* * *

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a boy of 17 years. Other boys and girls of my age go to parties and dances, but much as I would like to, I can't. I'm so bashful and nervous. When I start speaking to girls I blush, my heart beats rapidly and I lose my breath. The few parties that I've attended have held no interest for me because of this fact.

I would appreciate it very much, Miss Fairfax, if you would help me out in this matter, because I feel so unsuccessful socially.

S.

The only way to get over being bashful is to meet people, more people, and yet more people until your nervousness wears off. One boy recovering bashfulness wrote me that he did it by going to a party, picking out a wallflower girl who semeed to be having as bad a time as he had. Plucking up courage, he said to the girl: "You seem as bashful as I am. Suppose we talk and then dance. She was delighted. They talked, danced, and soon he was talking and dancing with other girls.

Try to make a joke of your bashfulness. Do as another boy did, and say to a girl: "Do you want to do your daily kind act and talk to a bashful guy? I'm the most bashful boy in the United States."

* * *

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We've been married a short year, and at first were so happy. But lately we have arguments and when he gets the worst of it, he raises his voice at me. I try laughing it off, but that doesn't help. He just walks out of the house and that makes me miserable wondering what he's doing.

At first he used to compliment me all the time. Now he never praises anything I do, just finds fault.

UNHAPPY.

You haven't told me what these arguments are about. Who starts them? If you seem to get the best of him, let it go at that. Be satisfied with your victory and don't laugh at him.

But why argue at all? Try some other form of entertainment. Apparently you never get anything out of it but criticism.

A good many of us aren't really grown-up, especially when our feelings are aroused. Why don't you be the wiser? Make a success of your marriage. Realize that most of us have to learn to play all over again after marriage. And don't be too serious with love. Love is a busy little fellow, especially with his wings. Don't let him fly away.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"She had money in her purse," Miss Whitlock answered slowly, evidently pondering her words. "But then, you know she is never without a small roll of bills for an emergency, and unless she had money concealed about her person, I do not think she carried more than she usually does."

My father's left hand was resting on the chair arm. As Miss Whitlock finished, he tapped his left thumb with the thumb of his right hand, a curious little gesture which I knew meant that he was checking a point for his memory.

"I am sorry to have interrupted you," he said with elaborate courtesy, "but I needed that particular piece of information. Please go on with your story."

"Before I do," Miss Whitlock said, "I am wondering if you could throw any light upon something which puzzled me very much. Mrs. Underwood was using an elaborate disguise, yet she called a taxi man who knew her."

"I believe you said she stipulate that one of two men should drive her," my father said quietly.

Strange Precautions.

"Yes, she did," the nurse replied.

"Then the explanation is an easy one," my father commented. "Both Mrs. Underwood and her husband are wizards at make-up and disguises. Their skill in that direction as well as their knowledge of my problems have made them invaluable to me on many occasions. The two drivers who, she stipulated, should be the only ones sent to her home, are doubtless men who can be trusted never to refer to the disguises which she sometimes uses."

"That is the explanation of course," Miss Whitlock said, with a trace of chagrin in her voice. "I should have figured it out for myself."

"I'll warrant she didn't trust them too far," my father said. "If I know her usual method of procedure, she had at least three different drivers, and as many stopping places, before she finally reached her destination."

"You evidently know her," the nurse commented dryly, "only there were four drivers in all before she finally settled down for the evening. The first one took us to a hotel with entrances on two streeets. Mrs. Underwood paid off the driver, and we entered the hotel. She went up to the desk and asked for a mythical Mrs. Norton, and when told there was no such person there, she said she was sure Mrs. Norton meant to come to the hotel, within an hour, and that she would wait for her. Then, with me tagging along, she went back to the waiting room, out of sight of the desk, sat down for perhaps five minutes, then went to the other entrance of the hotel, had a taxi called, and went on again.

"We visited two other hotels, and a cinema in the same fashion," Miss Whitlock went on. "I was just about to decide that we meant to repeat the performance indefinitely when she gave the order to stop at a restaurant and when we had dismissed the driver she spoke softly to me.

"Here is where we camp for the rest of the evening," she said, and then we went into the place, and took a table in one of the booths that ran down one side of the big room.

"You can imagine the attention we attracted," the nurse said. "It isn't often that a woman in deep mourning and a nurse apparently in attendance upon her go into a restaurant like that one and order dinner. But Mrs. Underwood ignored all of the curious glances superbly, and then, of course, once we had stationed ourselves in our booth, we were fairly sheltered from view.

"I realized quickly," she went in, "the reason for her choice of booths. It was so placed that from it she had a good view of the entrance door. She could see every one who entered or left the place without their being aware of her scrutiny.

"She ordered as elaborate a dinner as the menu afforded, although she barely touched the dishes when the waiter brought them, and I knew that she was simply 'buying time,' so that she would be able to stay as long as she liked. But I was hungry, and I ate my own dinner and part of hers. There was one dish which I never have seen anywhere else, a concoction of chicken and different sea foods which was simply delicious."

I started at a sudden recollection.

"Where was this restaurant?" I asked.

By MARIAM MARTIN.

Fashion turns to it again and again—the one-button "V" neckline, because it is so flattering and so feminine! Marian Martin makes it the chief feature of this smart shirt-waister mode—Pattern 9767. The clever collar can be made of contrasting fabric for extra zest. Note how the fullness from the shoulder yokes (cut in one with the back) and the darts at the waist create a soft bosom line. The set-in belt, too, gives you that made-to-order fitted look. The panelled skirt is easy to make; the whole dress is done in a few hours with the Sew Chart to guide you! Order it now as your new-season shirtwaister frock, and make the sleeves long or short instead of the three-quarter length.

Pattern 9767 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards 39-inch.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Dept., 232 West 18th street, New York, N. Y.

Mix flour, baking powder and salt and sift. Cream shortening, add sugar and continue creaming until well blended, then stir in well-beaten egg yolks. Add milk alternately with sifted ingredients, stirring well after each addition, then add vanilla. Bake in small greased muffin pans in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) from 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and frost, if you like. This amount will make 24 small cakes.

* * *

Barbecue Sauce.

¼ cup catsup
2 tablespons vinegar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon chopped onion

Combine ingredients and pour over meat loaves before baking.

PICNIC POINTERS

A neatly-packed picnic basket saves packing space and makes the unloading easier. And it has eye appeal.

Arrange bulky packages and heavy dishes in the bottom. Anchor them with small jars of spread and jam and any serving equipment.

Set fragile foods in the top of the basket and fit the rest of the food and any serving utensils in the chinks. Lay paper table cloth and napkins across the top and cover carefully with a clean tea towel.

And so to the picnic spot!

Do not thaw out frozen food until it is to be used. Once thawed, the food should all be used.

Meat Loaf of Cheaper Cuts Is Appetizing

By BETSY NEWMAN

We'll be doubly interested in using up the cheaper cuts of meat this fall, as meat seems bound to go sky high, and most of us must budget carefully. The chuck and beef shoulder are among these inexpensive cuts, so try out these recipes for appetizing and reasonable dishes.

Today's Menu.

Barbecued Meat Loaves
Baked Potatoes
Buttered Squash
Apple Celery Salad
Gold Cakes Coffee or Tea

Too Active Child Poses A Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Some mothers succeed at controlling the little child, in hard cases, by wearing the youngster down. But the trouble is they also wear themselves down. This letter is a typical example.

"Dear Mr. Myers: I have two children, one seven months, the other three years of age. The baby is wonderful but my little boy has been terribly hard to manage ever since he started to walk.

"He will not take a nap. He climbs right out of his crib, and I get exhausted lifting him back. Above all, he will not go to bed at night before 10 o'clock at the earliest. As fast as we put him in bed he climbs right out. He does this fifteen and twenty times a night, sometimes more.

"This makes it awfully hard for me as I have so much washing, etc., to do after he finally goes to sleep (from exhaustion) that I don't retire myself before two, and he is up again at 6:45 or before. He is over-active during the day, but certainly has plenty of energy left at night.

"Practically every night his father plays a game with him to see who will go to sleep first. His father does, and he gets up. Some nights his father spanks him but this has no effect.

"I am enclosing a stamped envelope. Any advice you can give me will be greatly appreciated."

A Solution.

I do admire your patience but wish you would not be so "fashionable" in your methods with that youngster. You have two problems; to train him to obey, and to help reduce his jealousy. You might borrow my "The Modern Parent" from your library and read the chapters on punishment and jealousy.

There is no good in Dad spanking this child occasionally. You both should work out a consistent plan. Say nothing about sleep. Put him in bed—pick him up and carry him there—about seven. Tell him he must not get up. The moment he does, spank him. Do it every time he rises till he gives up. Expect him to hold out a long while the first night and for several nights. Be always in the hall till the matter is corrected.

During the day, read to him for a few minutes occasionally. Hear his talk, answer all his questions, admire his crudest creations. Cuddle him now and then. Have Dad read to him on arriving home and make things with him. Never compare him unfavorably with Baby.

During the day, pick out a few things he must never touch. Spank him when he disobeys. Do nothing about other things till he learns permanently to avoid the few. As soon as he will stay where put, assign him for punishment to sit in a chair where you can see him, for exactly twenty minutes. And good luck.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. Would you punish a child of two or three to make him do what you want him to do?

A. No; better not even command him; ask him instead and then let him choose; but aim to be so persuasive as to win his cooperation. Except for routines this principle, as a rule, will win best cooperation from the child of any age. Employ punishment to prevent, not to promote.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, Sept. 30.

The astral auguries for this day may be read as propitious. There are signs of promotion, preferment and favors from employers, superiors and those in authority. However, it would be well to adhere to established codes in order to avoid running counter to community or public interest. Some minor deceptions may occur and change in plans or environs may suddenly be found to be advantageous. Over-emotionalism or mental disturbance should be avoided.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is on the whole may enjoy a prosperous and progressive year, with superiors and those in authority conferring favors or preferment. But subdue over-emotional behavior or mental agitation. Stick to conventional ways and means and all should be well. There may be indications of running counter to public opinion or group opposition. Changes are indicated.

A child born on this day should be versatile and find high favor with its superiors and employers, although being a bit temperamental.

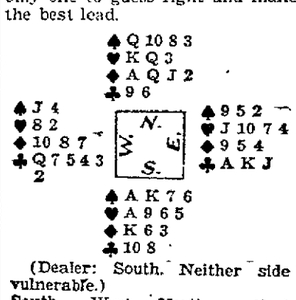
"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP THEM GUESSING

CLOSE TAB on the number of tricks handed you by the defense, especially through the opening lead, when they have almost no information about your hand and your partner's, can have a tremendous influence on your bidding tactics. If no suits have been bid except the one in which you are playing the hand, or if the bidding has been entirely in No Trumps with no suits shown, there is a terrific burden of guessing on the opening leader. He has several chances to guess wrong against only one to guess right and make the best lead.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠

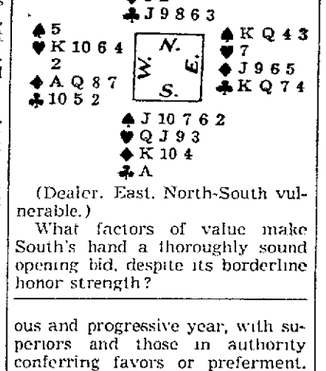
That bidding, in a duplicate game, almost impellingly pushed West into leading the unbid suit, clubs. East immediately peeled off two tricks in the suit, holding declarer to 11 tricks, just his contract plus one overtrick.

At another table, after hearing South's 1-Spade, North decided to give the opponents no information which probably would be more valuable to them than to his partner. So he showed the strength of his hand by a forcing jump raise of 3-Spades. South then bid 4-Spades, and it was West's guess. Since hearts had not been bid, he decided his partner was a bit more likely to have something in that suit than any other. He therefore led the heart 8.

It is easy to see now how South ran three spades, three hearts, ruffed a heart, ran four diamonds for a club discard, gave up one club and had a trump then for his 12th trick, an unbid small slam. The additional trick gained by that pair was not due to better play, but better bidding.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer, East. North-South vulnerable.)

What factors of value make South's hand a thoroughly sound opening bid, despite its borderline honor strength?

Foot Notes For the Weary Are Important

By MME. QUI VIVE

Here we are, harping on the same old string of abuse of the little dogs that carry us around all day. There is much to be said on the subject, especially this season of the year when hot pavements weary the poor trotters. Chiropodists tell us that few women have feet that are free from afflictions. The cause of most of these ills is ill-fitting shoes or lack of proper care. The subject comes under the beauty heading, all right, since even the strongest character cannot endue toe pangs without showing misery on the phiz. Every step is agony. The result may be frown lines, a spinal column under strain that disturbs the central nervous system, or just plain grouch.

The human pedals are wonderfully built and, given half a chance, will carry on the job with no discomfort. The woman who wears proper shoes, who carries her body perfectly balanced so that the weight is distributed, is being kind to hers; the silly dear who insists upon clumping around on spiked heels that send her shoulders forward and interfere with normal pose of the spinal column is not entitled to sympath. She creates her toe pangs, smarting soles and tense tendons. She fancies that the lifted heels make her feet look smaller, and that's that.

When walking, point toes straight ahead, put as much weight on the ball of the foot as on the heel, so there will be no strain. When high heels are worn, a woman is practically walking on her toes; the result quite often appears in the form of thickened ankles and strained leg muscles. Pains in the legs may extend to the thighs.

When getting shoes fitted see that they are amply large, but that they do not slip. The strap must be snug, to give support to the waist of the foot. There should be no pressure anywhere as that creates corns and calloused spots. If you have to "break in" shoes you can know that they are not the correct last; that they are too small or too heavy for comfort.

Let us hope that you do not cherish a phobia against sensible shoes. Because shoes are sensible does not mean that they must be dowdy. One can find comfort and chic. The shoe manufacturers are doing their best to give you what you should have.

Rubber taps are a help to the housewife who travels the household beat day after day, answering phone and doorbells, scurrying from room to room, scuttling through her household duties. The best shoe for her job is a good old-fashioned oxford. To make it a practice of economy to wear out shoes that have spread or have become misshapen is to invite all the foot ills in the whole miserable list.

PLEDGES GROW

Shelby Hospital Drive Hits $80,000; Plan Building.

SHELBY — More than $80,000 today had been reported pledged toward the Shelby Memorial hospital addition fund, John Warden, general chairman in charge of the drive to raise the fund, disclosed today.

A goal of $75,000 had been set for the drive. The money received over the goal mark will be used for equipment at the hospital and will make up for the shrinkage in the fund that will come before the pledges are all collected, Warden pointed out.

The proposed addition will be built this fall if it is possible to obtain a contractor and materials for the job.

The more than $80,000 raised for the addition is the largest amount ever raised in Shelby by popular subscription.

For Better Farming

When events are moving as rapidly as they are in these days, both as individuals and as groups we are faced with a difficult job of keeping abreast of the times. Yet if we fail to keep informed, we risk the chance of finding ourselves completely unprepared for changes which force themselves upon us.

As farmers we face two kinds of problems—how to adjust ourselves to the present and how to plan for the future. Still caught in the aftermath of World War I and wrestling with the problems set in motion by it, we find ourselves faced with another war-born emergency to cope with.

There's a human tendency to wish for the good old days when the farmer was independent—or felt that he was, but I wonder how independent he really was?

It has always been important to us as American farmers that the price of farm products be good, wherever produced. For crops produced by cheap labor compete with our crops, produced by farmers with a relatively high standard of living and tend to force our prices down. This has become evident with modern transportation as many specialty farmers close to markets have found to their sorrow. In other words, location is not the insurance against competition that it once was.

It is an economic fact that people want to buy food at as low a price as they can. In a system where production is carried on under compulsion in an effort to produce cheaply and thus undersell competition, farmers find themselves at the bottom of a maelstrom of declining prices for all goods. Such is the eventual prospect of a world dominated by dictatorial governments of whatever name.

For the farmer then, the problem is not only what management practices will be most efficient in producing income for my family on my farm, but in addition what sort of national policy or international policy will bring the greatest prospect of happiness to this world in which we live?

In short, each farm family is an international unit and is vitally concerned with what happens to farmers everywhere, whether or not we would choose to have it so. This implies that we have an individual responsibility to make ourselves felt in any way possible to move the world in the right direction. Specifically, we need to use all the privileges of democratic government to get the facts, look at all sides of the question and then cast our weight in the direction which will be most effective toward the desired end over the long period.

It may seem that as individuals there is nothing we can do about it anyway, but the old rhyme about "little drops of water, little grains of sand," should not be forgotten. Now as never before, farmers need to be on the alert to new situations arising, and need to give intelligent direction to matters which vitally concern them.

As individuals, we should vote upon every issue upon which we have the opportunity to express ourselves. Organization is essential to concentrate the opinions of individuals into more effective action. But against the individuals need to make themselves heard and felt in formulating organization policy. We might sum it all up by saying that the more complex the machine, the more intelligence is required to direct it toward the desired end.

GALION COUPLE WED IN CHURCH CEREMONY, TAKE CANADA TRIP

GALION — In a pretty church ceremony at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, Bonnie Lou Callender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Calender, became the bride of Fred Ritchey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ritchey. The service was read by Rev. Father William Pfeifer at St. Joseph's Catholic church. Flowers decorated the altar and a hand-crocheted altar lace of lilies, made by the bridegroom's mother, was used on the main altar.

A program of nuptial numbers were presented before the traditional Lohengrin's march was played.

The bride, who wore a blue velvet dress edged in lush lace, and blue velvet hat and veil, had a corsage of gardenias and white roses. She was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Susan Ritchey. Raymond Ritchey was his brother's best man.

Following the ceremony, the couple left on a wedding trip that will take them to Canada. When they return about Oct. 8, they will be given a reception. They will make their home at 135 East Parson street.

Mrs. Ritchey was graduated from Galion high school in 1941, and has been receptionist at the Central Ohio Steel Products company. Her husband was graduated from the same school in 1936, and is an associate in the Galion Ice and Fuel company.

Bucyrus Postal Clerk Ends 27 Years Of Service

BUCYRUS—Forty-seven years of service in the Bucyrus postoffice will end Tuesday for Miss Alberta Ensminger, veteran money order clerk.

Miss Ensminger's record service is unequalled in local postal circles and her retirement on pension will bring an end to a career which began back on Sept. 1, 1894 when she was appointed stamp and mailing clerk.

When Miss Ensminger began her duties the Bucyrus postoffice had a staff of nine. Now it has 26, all men. The office has been moved three times during its service. In 1930, the local force moved into its new home, built by the government, the previous locations having been rented from private owners.

The retiring clerk has worked under six postmasters and two assistants. She was promoted to money order clerk in 1899, and in the same year was appointed secretary of the local civil service commission, a post she has held for 42 years.

When the first mail was picked up by airplane here a few years ago, Miss Ensminger was chosen to hand over the pouch to the pilot. During her service she was absent from work because of illness only about 60 days.

THEATERS

Stevenson Classic.

Spencer Tracy stars again in the dual role of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," showing at the Ohio. He resorts to no gargantuan make-up to denote his transformation from the good Dr. Jekyll to the evil Mr. Hyde and with a minimum of facial horror the star achieves his personality transition. As the scientist who subjects himself to his own experiments that ultimately destroy him Tracy is supported by a stellar cast topped by Ingrid Bergman, Lana Turner, Donald Crisp and Ian Hunter.

* * *

Island Comedy.

Lynne Overman furnishes the comedy in "Aloma of the South Seas," the Dorothy Lamour-Jon Hall technicolor spectacle showing at the Madison. As a transplanted American politico who has some of the aspects of a beachcomber Overman sets the stage for the return of a native prince to a South Seas isle from a season of schooling at Harvard. He plunges Hall into some hilarious scenes that supplement the more dramatic moments of the picture. "We Go Fast," the second feature, has Lynn Bari and Alan Curtis.

* * *

Adventure In India.

"They Met In Bombay," the Clark Gable-Rosalind Russell comedy showing at the Ritz presents the amusing story of two members of the light-fingered gentry who join forces and then prove their bravery under fire. A native uprising and much gunplay furnishes excitement. William Boyd's "Pirates on Horseback," is the co-attraction.

* * *

Political Drama.

* * *

Technicolor Spectacle.

"The Thief of Bagdad," technicolor production with Sabu, the Indian boy, and Conrad Veidt, is showing at the Majestic as the headliner. "Dr. Kildare's Crisis," with Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore is the second film.

GEN. JOHNSON: Nation's Greatest War Maneuvers End

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON — Human labor is not a commodity of commerce. Therefore we ought to put a ceiling over all prices, but not wages. Something like that is the reasoning of Henry Morgenthau. With one other exception — the 6 per cent limitation on profits nonsense — his testimony was excellent, but that one was pure politics and buncombe. It is exactly like saying: "A straight line is the shortest distance between two points and therefore the moon is made of green cheese."

Johnson

Nobody denies that labor is not a commodity. Except the worker himself, no man owns it, no man can buy and sell it or send it to work where it does not want to go. But price inflation is the worst danger to labor itself. It can't be stopped without direct controls.

A principal element in price inflation is labor prices. You can't control price inflation without controlling those prices also, and to say that you can't control the latter because labor is not a commodity doesn't make sense. Commodity or no commodity, its prices affect the whole commodity price structure.

In the control effort, they can no more be ignored than you can ignore the law of gravity in jumping out of a balloon. They are the principal pull that leads to the coming disastrous result. You've got to have a parachute, and it will be no good with great holes in it.

A parachute for both prices and wages is proposed here. Nobody is proposing any rigid ceiling. No control of wages that is not tied to the certain increase in the cost of living has been discussed. In a war economy prices are bound to go up and under these proposals the wages of labor must go up in the same ratio. Nobody dreams of preserving the old price structure or preventing an orderly rise. The object here is only to keep it from running away to absolute chaos and destruction.

In such a sky-rocketing labor always suffers first and worst. Nothing that labor, organized or unorganized, ever gained or dreamed of gaining would equal in benefit this proposal to control the rise, and, by insuring automatically a rise in wages proportionate to the rise in the cost of living, to secure to labor, at long last a preservation of the present high wage scale of "real wages."

That means to insure every head of a family that his pay envelope will buy throughout all the troublous days ahead at least as many groceries, as much clothing, rent and all the necessaries of life as it does today.

Those who oppose this are no true friends of labor. The reason advanced, that labor is not a commodity, is just political hogwash without any bearing on the real elements of the problem. Its only effect can be to befuddle and bemuse workers to their own disadvantage.

There is hardly a student of this subject, and there is none that has had intense experience with it, who does not know that prevention of inflation through price control is an utterly foolish and futile gesture—a mountebank's clowning—if farm and labor prices are free from control.

Yet, because some politically-minded labor and farm organization leaders have seemed to accede to this demagogy, some even more politically-minded federal officials have been willing to set aside the most obvious facts and logic of this case, even though the effect may be to sell the country down the river to the most terrible inflationary boom and deflationary bust that this country has yet known.

U. S. CERTAIN POPE FAVORS DEMOCRACIES

Officials Express Confidence After Visit of Taylor To Vatican at Rome.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Advices received by the American government concerning the visit to the Vatican of Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy, today led high officials in Washington to feel absolutely confident that the sympathies of the Pope rest with the democracies in the present world struggle.

Taylor, who now is en route home via London to report to President Roosevelt, is understood to have obtained the very clear impression that his Holiness hopes the democratic way of life will prevail when this war is over.

Taylor, it was learned on high authority, outlined to the Pope the tremendous effort which the United States is making to aid those countries resisting aggression. He also explained to the Pope the fact the American government is definitely committed to bringing about the defeat of Hitlerism, and reassured his Holiness concerning this country's policy of aid to Soviet Russia.

He further conveyed to the Pope this government's hope that it may be possible when the war is over to bring about a gradual restoration of religious freedom in Russia. In this connection, American officials attach considerable significance to the fact that the Soviet ambassador to London, Ivan Maisky, attended the religious services held there last week to mark the birthday of young King Peter of Yugoslavia.

Explanation of the American government's policy, especially its aid to Russia, was the main purpose of Taylor's special trip to the Vatican. Contrary to published reports, it was said that he did not seek any public pronouncement by the Pope concerning the "justness" of the war being waged against Germany.

It is realized in official quarters in Washington that it would be extremely difficult for his Holiness to align himself definitely on the side of the democracies against Germany as a nation.

Apart from his position as the spiritual head of Catholics everywhere, Pope Pius is known to possess a friendly feeling for the German people. He was Papal Nuncio in Germany during and after the last war.

Mansfield police are looking for a thief who was ambitious if not honest. Foster Hunter, 43 Chilton avenue, reported yesterday that someone had gone to the trouble of removing the shock absorbers from his auto Saturday night while it was parked in the Ideal Electric parking lot. Police have had reports of thefts of tires and wheels, radio aerials, and other equipment but this was the first in which the thief had gone as far as the shock absorbers.

Dry weather during the past two months may take some of the color out of Richland county's wooded hills this fall. The draught is causing some of the leaves to wilt and fall without changing colors, County Agent George B. Ganyard said. A number of shade trees in Mansfield have already shed most of their leaves before they changed color. Naturalists contend that the ripening process and not frost causes the leaves to turn red and yellow in the fall. This season, however, the leaves are drying up before the time for them to ripen.

The city's newest park will be named after John H. Todd, 186 Vennum avenue, donor of the land Mr. Todd donated 22 acres of land, located east of the Richland county children's home, to the city at a recent meeting of the Hedges Parent-Teachers association. The land was originally held by the Hedges family and passed into the ownership of Mr. Todd's father when he married Naomi Hedges, General James Hedges' niece. The park will be named after Mr. Todd upon request of the newly-formed John Todd Park association. In a News-Journal story on the park yesterday it was erroneously stated that the park would be named after Mr. Todd's father, John J. Todd.

PEACE COMES TO BIG AREA, TROOPS REST

Armies Wait In Bivouacs at Shreveport For Decisions of Games Umpires.

(By United Press)

Peace came today to the piney forests and swampy lowlands of East Texas and West Louisiana where for six weeks a half million men—one-fourth of the nation's armed forces—participated in the greatest maneuvers this country's army ever held.

The soldiers of the Second and Third armies rested today in bivouacs around Shreveport, awaiting the umpires' decision on the last phase of the war games and the high command critiques. They will break camp within a few days and return to their home bases.

The last problem of the maneuvers—the Red army's defense of Shreveport—ended late yesterday with the Reds still in possession of the city but most of the Blue Third army only 25 miles away and still pounding at the center of the enemy line.

The second armored division of the Blue army actually reached Shreveport's city limits but the games ended before the main forces of the two armies locked in combat.

Although the Reds had the first armored division attached to their forces, they seemed never able to organize a counter-offensive. The Blues had been prepared to engage in a major battle for the past two days but the Reds never offered one.

Apparently the Red forces, in an attempt to plug all gaps had so weakened their center, that they were unable to make a frontal stand. The main forces of the Reds continued to drop back toward Shreveport without risking their weaker main forces in combat with the oncoming Blues.

General George Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army, and Lieutenant General Leslie J. McNair, director of the maneuvers, issued statements praising their new army.

"The maneuvers just completed have been a great success," Marshall telegraphed. "The endurance and the spirit of the troops have been a model of excellence."

"The soldier of 1941," McNair said, "will give a better account of himself than the soldier of any other period in our history."

STEEL PLANTS RESUME WORK

Brief Strike Ends In 3-Way Agreement By Governor, Workers, Company.

(By Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Steel mills which form the backbone of this southern capital of heavy industry resumed operation today as a short-lived strike involving more than 30,000 men ended.

A three-cornered agreement sent workers back to their jobs 24 hours after a steel workers organizing committee (CIO) picket line halted production in Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company plants at Bessemer, Ensley and Fairfield.

Gov. Frank M. Dixon agreed to removal of 500 Alabama state guardsmen, the union agreed to withdraw its picket lines and send its members to work, and the company promised immediate negotiation of grievances at the Ensley plant.

The strike already had cut production of steel and iron, vital defense metals, by more than 15,000 tons, authoritative sources estimated.

TCI, U. S. Steel subsidiary, produces approximately 80 per cent of the south's steel, and supplies most of the steel used for shell manufacture in the southeast and shipbuilding in gulf coast yards.

The strike began Friday night. Disagreement over wages was a major point at issue.

Union men objected to the use of state guardsmen and, after assurances from William Mitch, southern SWOC director, and other SWOC officials, the troopers were withdrawn.

A settlement followed swiftly.

CLEAR TRACKS OF WRECKAGE

Crews Clean up After Two Wrecks On Nickel Plate Railroad.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Nickel Plate railroad crews worked today to clear the wreckage of two wrecks which occurred within 14 hours.

A giant 225-ton locomotive and five refrigerator cars of a 60-car fast Nickel Plate freight were derailed early yesterday near Bellevue. Saturday afternoon an engine and 14 cars were damaged when they plunged over an embankment near Cleveland.

Traffic on the double track Nickel Plate main line and an adjoining Pennsylvania railroad track was stopped while workers cleared the wreckage of the two derailments. Extra trains were routed through Fremont.

HUSBAND CHARGED WITH MURDER IN TRUNK SLAYING OF WOMAN

(By International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS—Despite his protestations of innocence Charles Napoleon Ney, 55, a former mail carrier, was held on formal murder charges today for the slaying of his 60-year-old bride of less than four months, whose body was found packed in rock salt in a trunk.

The victim was the former Mrs. Edith B. Lane of Boston, Mass. who was married to Ney in Miami Fla., last June 7.

"I don't know anything about the murder," Ney insisted to police. "If I did it, I didn't know what I was doing. I must have been out of my mind."

Authorities said Ney boasted he was "the great great grandson of Napoleon's Marshal Ney." He said he was born in Paris, and had studied medicine at Heidelberg, Germany, but had never practiced. He volunteered the information that he twice had been confined to a mental hospital at Tuscaloose, Ala., the last time in 1936.

Ney was arrested Saturday while moving the trunk from an apartment house. The woman's body was wrapped in towels and packed in rock salt. Coroner's physicians said she had been beaten to death by a blunt instrument.

Police said a bloodstained tack hammer was found in Ney's car, and that his trousers, underwear ane one shoe were bloodstained. Although he admitted he had no money before he married the Boston woman, he had almost $2,000 and three valuable rings on his person when arrested. His automobile was a new one which he said he bought for $1,200 cash at Biloxi, Miss.

PLEDGES GROW

Shelby Hospital Drive Hits $80,000; Plan Building.

SHELBY — More than $80,000 today had been reported pledged toward the Shelby Memorial hospital addition fund, John Warden, general chairman in charge of the drive to raise the fund, disclosed today.

A goal of $75,000 had been set for the drive. The money received over the goal mark will be used for equipment at the hospital and will make up for the shrinkage in the fund that will come before the pledges are all collected, Warden pointed out.

The proposed addition will be built this fall if it is possible to obtain a contractor and materials for the job.

The more than $80,000 raised for the addition is the largest amount ever raised in Shelby by popular subscription.

For Better Farming

When events are moving as rapidly as they are in these days, both as individuals and as groups we are faced with a difficult job of keeping abreast of the times. Yet if we fail to keep informed, we risk the chance of finding ourselves completely unprepared for changes which force themselves upon us.

As farmers we face two kinds of problems—how to adjust ourselves to the present and how to plan for the future. Still caught in the aftermath of World War I and wrestling with the problems set in motion by it, we find ourselves faced with another war-born emergency to cope with.

There's a human tendency to wish for the good-old days when the farmer was independent—or felt that he was, but I wonder how independent he really was?

It has always been important to us as American farmers that the price of farm products be good, wherever produced. For crops produced by cheap labor compete with our crops, produced by farmers with a relatively high standard of living and tend to force our prices down. This has become evident with modern transportation as many specialty farmers close to markets have found to their sorrow. In other words, location is not the insurance against competition that it once was.

It is an economic fact that people want to buy food at as low a price as they can. In a system where production is carried on under compulsion in an effort to produce cheaply and thus undersell competition, farmers find themselves at the bottom of a maelstrom of declining prices for all goods. Such is the eventual prospect of a world dominated by dictatorial governments of whatever name.

For the farmer then, the problem is not only what management practices will be most efficient in producing income for my family on my farm, but in addition what sort of national policy or international policy will bring the greatest prospect of happiness to this world in which we live?

In short, each farm family is an international unit and is vitally concerned with what happens to farmers everywhere, whether or not we would choose to have it so. This implies that we have an individual responsibility to make ourselves felt in any way possible to move the world in the right direction. Specifically, we need to use all the privileges of democratic government to get the facts, look at all sides of the question and then cast our weight in the direction which will be most effective toward the desired end over the long period.

It may seem that as individuals there is nothing we can do about it anyway, but the old rhyme about "little drops of water, little grains of sand," should not be forgotten. Now as never before, farmers need to be on the alert to new situations arising, and need to give intelligent direction to matters which vitally concern them.

As individuals, we should vote upon every issue upon which we have the opportunity to express ourselves. Organization is essential to concentrate the opinions of individuals into more effective action. But against the individuals need to make themselves heard and felt in formulating organization policy. We might sum it all up by saying that the more complex the machine, the more intelligence is required to direct it toward the desired end.

GALION COUPLE WED IN CHURCH CEREMONY, TAKE CANADA TRIP

GALION—In a pretty church ceremony at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, Bonnie Lou Callender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Calender, became the bride of Fred Ritchey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ritchey. The service was read by Rev. Father William Porter at St. Joseph's Catholic church. Flowers decorated the altar, and a hand-crocheted altar lace of lilies, made by the bridegroom's mother, was used on the main altar.

A program of nuptial numbers were presented before the traditional Lohengrin's march was played.

The bride, who wore a blue velvet dress edged in Irish lace, and blue velvet hat and veil, had a corsage of gardenias and white roses. She was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Susan Ritchey. Raymond Ritchey was his brother's best man.

Following the ceremony, the couple left on a wedding trip that will take them to Canada. When they return about Oct. 8, they will be given a reception. They will make their home at 135 East Parson street.

Mrs. Ritchey was graduated from Galion high school in 1941, and has been receptionist at the Central Ohio Steel Products company. Her husband was graduated from the same school in 1936, and is an associate in the Galion Ice and Fuel company.

MEN OVER 35

Many men are facing a general slowing up of their glandular system. Such symptoms as nervousness, insomnia, lack of vigor, poor circulation, depression and exhaustion indicate more serious troubles ahead. These often are signs that premature senility has set in. ACTIVATED GLAND TABLETS supply certain glandular deficiencies and quickly restore vigorous health. Stop in at the Hursh Pharmacy, corner Fourth and Diamond, and learn about this treatment.—Adv.

BRIDE-ELECT HONORED BY CRESTLINE FRIENDS AT TEA

CRESTLINE—A group of friends were entertained at a tea Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the home of Miss Evelyn Emmer, Clink boulevard, in honor of Miss Cora Mae Deems, bride-elect of LeRoy Bletz.

Associate hostesses for the tea were Misses Louise Potter, Elverda Deems, and Mrs. Edward Zipf. The tea table was decorated with baby pom pons and candelabra. The honor guest was presented a corsage from the hostesses and she was also recipient of two luggage cases, one being presented by the hostesses, the other from the group of guests.

Mrs. Kenneth Swank of Shelby was the only out-of-town guest present.

The wedding of Miss Deems and Mr. Bletz will be an event of next Sunday, Oct. 5, at Calvary Reformed church.

Bucyrus Postal Clerk Ends 27 Years Of Service

BUCYRUS—Forty-seven years of service in the Bucyrus postoffice will end Tuesday for Miss Alberta Ensminger, veteran money order clerk.

Miss Ensminger's record service is unequalled in local postal circles and her retirement on pension will bring an end to a career which began back on Sept. 1, 1894 when she was appointed stamp and mailing clerk.

When Miss Ensminger began her duties the Bucyrus postoffice had a staff of nine. Now it has 26, all men. The office has been moved three times during its service. In 1930, the local force moved into its new home, built by the government, the previous locations having been rented from private owners.

The retiring clerk has worked under six postmasters and two assistants. She was promoted to money order clerk in 1899, and in the same year was appointed secretary of the local civil service commission, a post she has held for 42 years.

When the first mail was picked up by airplane here a few years ago, Miss Ensminger was chosen to hand over the pouch to the pilot. During her service she was absent from work because of illness only about 60 days.

THEATERS

Stevenson Classic.

Spencer Tracy stars again in the dual role of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," showing at the Ohio. He resorts to no gargantuan make-up to denote his transformation from the good Dr. Jekyll to the evil Mr. Hyde and with a minimum of facial horror the star achieves his personality transition. As the scientist who subjects himself to his own experiments that ultimately destroy him Tracy is supported by a stellar cast topped by Ingrid Bergman, Lana Turner, Donald Crisp and Ian Hunter.

* * *

Island Comedy.

Lynne Overman furnishes the comedy in "Aloma of the South Seas," the Dorothy Lamour-Jon Hall technicolor spectacle showing at the Madison. As a transplanted American politico who has some of the aspects of a beachcomber Overman sets the stage for the return of a native prince to a South Seas isle from a season of schooling at Harvard. He plunges Hall into some hilarious scenes that supplement the more dramatic moments of the picture. "We Go Fast," the second feature, has Lynn Bari and Alan Curtis.

* * *

Adventure In India.

"They Met In Bombay," the Clark Gable-Rosalind Russell comedy showing at the Ritz presents the amusing story of two members of the light-fingered gentry who join forces and then prove their bravery under fire. A native uprising and much gunplay furnishes excitement. William Boyd's "Pirates on Horseback," is the co-attraction.

* * *

Political Drama.

* * *

Technicolor Spectacle.

"The Thief of Bagdad," technicolor production with Sabu, the Indian boy, and Conrad Veidt, is showing at the Majestic as the headliner. "Dr. Kildare's Crisis," with Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore is the second film.

GEN. JOHNSON: Nation's Greatest War Maneuvers End

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Human labor is not a commodity of commerce. Therefore we ought to put a ceiling over all prices, but not wages. Something like that is the reasoning of Henry Morgenthau. With one other exception — the 6 per cent limitation on profits nonsense — his testimony was excellent, but that one was pure politics and buncombe. It is exactly like saying: "A straight line is the shortest distance between two points and therefore the moon is made of green cheese."

Johnson

Nobody denies that labor is not a commodity. Except the worker himself, no man owns it, no man can buy and sell it or send it to work where it does not want to go. But price inflation is the worst danger to labor itself. It can't be stopped without direct controls.

A principal element in price inflation is labor prices. You can't control price inflation without controlling those prices also, and to say that you can't control the latter because labor is not a commodity doesn't make sense. Commodity or no commodity, its prices affect the whole commodity price structure.

In the control effort, they can no more be ignored than you can ignore the law of gravity in jumping out of a balloon. They are the principal pull that leads to the coming disastrous result. You've got to have a parachute, and it will be no good with great holes in it.

A parachute for both prices and wages is proposed here. Nobody is proposing any rigid ceiling. No control of wages that is not tied to the certain increase in the cost of living has been discussed. In a war economy prices are bound to go up and under these proposals the wages of labor must go up in the same ratio. Nobody dreams of preserving the old price structure or preventing an orderly rise. The object here is only to keep it from running away to absolute chaos and destruction.

In such a sky-rocketing labor always suffers first and worst. Nothing that labor, organized or unorganized, ever gained or dreamed of gaining would equal in benefit this proposal to control the rise, and, by insuring automatically a rise in wages proportionate to the rise in the cost of living, to secure to labor, at long last a preservation of the present high wage scale of "real wages."

That means to insure every head of a family that his pay envelope will buy throughout all the troublous days ahead at least as many groceries, as much clothing, rent and all the necessaries of life as it does today.

Those who oppose this are no true friends of labor. The reason advanced — that labor is not a commodity, is just political hogwash without any bearing on the real elements of the problem. Its only effect can be to befuddle and bemuse workers to their own disadvantage.

There is hardly a student of this subject, and there is none that has had intense experience with it, who does not know that prevention of inflation through price control is an utterly foolish and futile gesture—a mountebank's clowning —if farm and labor prices are free from control.

Yet, because some politically-minded labor and farm organization leaders have seemed to accede to this demagogy, some even more politically-minded federal officials have been willing to set aside the most obvious facts and logic of this case, even though the effect may be to sell the country down the river to the most terrible inflationary boom and deflationary bust that this country has yet known.

U. S. CERTAIN POPE FAVORS DEMOCRACIES

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Advices received by the American government concerning the visit to the Vatican of Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy, today led high officials in Washington to feel absolutely confident that the sympathies of the Pope rest with the democracies in the present world struggle.

Taylor, who now is en route home via London to report to President Roosevelt, is understood to have obtained the very clear impression that his Holiness hopes the democratic way of life will prevail when this war is over.

Taylor, it was learned on high authority, outlined to the Pope the tremendous effort which the United States is making to aid those countries resisting aggression. He also explained to the Pope the fact the American government is definitely committed to bringing about the defeat of Hitlerism, and reassured his Holiness concerning this country's policy of aid to Soviet Russia.

He further conveyed to the Pope this government's hope that it may be possible when the war is over to bring about a gradual restoration of religious freedom in Russia. In this connection, American officials attach considerable significance to the fact that the Soviet ambassador to London, Ivan Maisky, attended the religious services held there last week to mark the birthday of young King Peter of Yugoslavia.

Explanation of the American government's policy, especially its aid to Russia, was the main purpose of Taylor's special trip to the Vatican. Contrary to published reports, it was said that he did not seek any public pronouncement by the Pope concerning the "justness" of the war being waged against Germany.

It is realized in official quarters in Washington that it would be extremely difficult for his Holiness to align himself definitely on the side of the democracies against Germany as a nation.

Apart from his position as the spiritual head of Catholics everywhere, Pope Pius is known to possess a friendly feeling for the German people. He was Papal Nuncio in Germany during and after the last war.

Up and Down THE Street

Mansfield police are looking for a thief who was ambitious if not honest. Foster Hunter, 43 Chilton avenue, reported yesterday that someone had gone to the trouble of removing the shock absorbers from his auto Saturday night while it was parked in the Ideal Electric parking lot. Police have had reports of thefts of tires and wheels, radio aerials, and other equipment but this was the first in which the thief had gone as far as the shock absorbers.

Dry weather during the past two months may take some of the color out of Richland county's wooded hills this fall. The draught is causing some of the leaves to wilt and fall without changing colors, County Agent George B. Gaynard said. A number of shade trees in Mansfield have already shed most of their leaves before they changed color. Naturalists contend that the ripening process and not frost causes the leaves to turn red and yellow in the fall. This season, however, the leaves are drying up before the time for them to ripen.

The city's newest park will be named after John H. Todd, 186 Vernum avenue donor of the land. Mr. Todd donated 22 acres of land, located east of the Richland county children's home, to the city at a recent meeting of the Hedges Parent-Teachers association. The land was originally held by the Hedges family and passed into the ownership of Mr. Todd's father when he married Naomi Hedges, General James Hedges' niece. The park will be named after Mr. Todd upon request of the newly-formed John Todd Park association. In a News-Journal story on the park yesterday it was erroneously stated that the park would be named after Mr. Todd's father, John J. Todd.

PEACE COMES TO BIG AREA, TROOPS REST

(By United Press)

Peace came today to the piney forests and swampy lowlands of East Texas and West Louisiana where for six weeks a half million men—one-fourth of the nation's armed forces—participated in the greatest maneuvers this country's army ever held.

The soldiers of the Second and Third armies rested today in bivouacs around Shreveport, awaiting the umpires' decision on the last phase of the war games and the high command critiques. They will break camp within a few days and return to their home bases.

The last problem of the maneuvers—the Red army's defense of Shreveport—ended late yesterday with the Reds still in possession of the city but most of the Blue Third army only 25 miles away and still pounding at the center of the enemy line.

The second armored division of the Blue army actually reached Shreveport's city limits but the games ended before the main forces of the two armies locked in combat.

Although the Reds had the first armored division attached to their forces, they seemed never able to organize a counter-offensive. The Blues had been prepared to engage in a major battle for the past two days but the Reds never offered one.

Apparently the Red forces, in an attempt to plug all gaps had so weakened their center, that they were unable to make a frontal stand. The main forces of the Reds continued to drop back toward Shreveport without risking their weaker main forces in combat with the oncoming Blues.

General George Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army, and Lieutenant General Leslie J. McNair, director of the maneuvers, issued statements praising their new army.

"The maneuvers just completed have been a great success," Marshall telegraphed. "The endurance and the spirit of the troops have been a model of excellence."

"The soldier of 1941," McNair said, "will give a better account of himself than the soldier of any other period in our history."

WELL BLAMED IN TYPHOID CASES

Director Cites Contamination as Cause of Five Cases.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ohio's worst 1941 outbreak of typhoid fever, which hospitalized five victims from Newport, in Madison county, was blamed today on a contaminated, previously condemned well by State Health Director R. H. Markwith.

The stricken, all of whom used the well for a water supply, were brought to University hospital in Columbus for treatment. The well has been closed and all residents of the community vaccinated to prevent further spread of the disease, Dr. Markwith said.

Mrs. Smith, a former resident of Mansfield, will direct promotional activity for the AAA in her county through school and grange work. She served as postmistress in Killbuck during the Woodrow Wilson administration.

STEEL PLANTS RESUME WORK

Brief Strike Ends In 3-Way Agreement By Governor, Workers, Company.

(By Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Steel mills which form the backbone of this southern capital of heavy industry resumed operation today as a short-lived strike involving more than 30,000 men ended.

A three-cornered agreement sent workers back to their jobs 24 hours after a steel workers organizing committee (CIO) picket line halted production in Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company plants at Bessemer, Ensley and Fairfield.

Gov. Frank M. Dixon agreed to removal of 500 Alabama state guardsmen, the union agreed to withdraw its picket lines and send its members to work, and the company promised immediate negotiation of grievances at the Ensley plant.

The strike already had cut production of steel and iron, vital defense metals, by more than 15,000 tons, authoritative sources estimated.

TCI, U. S. Steel subsidiary, produces approximately 80 per cent of the south's steel, and supplies most of the steel used for shell manufacture in the southeast and shipbuilding in gulf coast yards.

The strike began Friday night. Disagreement over wages was a major point at issue.

Union men objected to the use of state guardsmen and, after assurances from William Mitch, southern SWOC director, and other SWOC officials, the troopers were withdrawn.

A settlement followed swiftly.

CLEAR TRACKS OF WRECKAGE

Crews Clean up After Two Wrecks On Nickel Plate Railroad.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Nickel Plate railroad crews worked today to clear the wreckage of two wrecks which occurred within 14 hours.

A giant 225-ton locomotive and five refrigerator cars of a 60-car fast Nickel Plate freight were derailed early yesterday near Bellevue. Saturday afternoon an engine and 14 cars were damaged when they plunged over an embankment near Cleveland.

Traffic on the double track Nickel Plate main line and an adjoining Pennsylvania railroad track was stopped while workers cleared the wreckage of the two derailments. Extra trains were routed through Fremont.

DIES AT AGE 81

Mrs. Catherine Miller Succumbs At Daughter's Home.

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Catherine Miller, 81, died here yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Stofer, after a lingering illness.

Born in Crawford county, she was a lifelong resident of this vicinity.

In addition to her daughter she is survived by a son, O. B. Miller of Mansfield; and two grandchildren, Mrs. Loren Knell of Bucyrus and Mrs. Frederick Jacobs of Mansfield.

HUSBAND CHARGED WITH MURDER IN TRUNK SLAYING OF WOMAN

(By International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS — Despite his protestations of innocence Charles Napoleon Ney, 55, a former mail carrier, was held on formal murder charges today for the slaying of his 60-year-old bride of less than four months, whose body was found packed in rock salt in a trunk.

The victim was the former Mrs. Edith B. Lane of Boston, Mass., who was married to Ney in Miami Fla., last June 7.

"I don't know anything about the murder," Ney insisted to police. "If I did it, I didn't know what I was doing. I must have been out of my mind."

Authorities said Ney boasted he was "the great great grandson of Napoleon's Marshal Ney." He said he was born in Paris, and had studied medicine at Heidelberg, Germany, but had never practiced. He volunteered the information that he twice had been confined to a mental hospital at Tuscaloose, Ala., the last time in 1936.

Ney was arrested Saturday while moving the trunk from an apartment house. The woman's body was wrapped in towels and packed in rock salt. Coroner's physicians said she had been beaten to death by a blunt instrument.

Police said a bloodstained tack hammer was found in Ney's car, and that his trousers, underwear and one shoe were bloodstained. Although he admitted he had no money before he married the Boston woman, he had almost $2,000 and three valuable rings on his person when arrested. His automobile was a new one which he said he bought for $1,200 cash at Biloxi, Miss.

DIES AT AGE 33

William Longsdorf Succumbs After Short Illness.

William F. Longsdorf, 33, died yesterday at his home at 139 West Dickson avenue after a short illness.

Born in Mansfield, July 28, 1908, he lived his entire life here and was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Margaret Hink, 67, a native of Germany, died yesterday at her home, 12 Swanger avenue, after an illness of several months.

Born June 18, 1874, she came to Mansfield at an early age where she became a member of St. John's Evangelical church.

Surviving are one brother, John F. Hink of Weller township, one sister, Mrs. Edward L. Miller, of Mansfield; and several nephews and nieces.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home where Rev. Paul H. Saleste will conduct services tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

CLASS IN FIRST AID TO MEET

Red Cross Members To Learn Of Chemical Warfare Work.

First aid instructors enrolled in the instructors' training course sponsored by Richland county chapter of the Red Cross will be taught how to administer first aid following chemical warfare at their meeting tonight in the Ohio Brass company building.

Bernard C. Hardy, chapter first aid director, will conduct the class explaining the type of first aid prescribed for the various kinds of gasses including eye, nose and lung irritants as well as blister gasses.

Thursday night the instructors will get their first "black-out" experience. They will be given problems in bandaging, application of splints, and transportation which they must solve in a completely darkened room. Later they will work with shaded flashlights, Hardy said.

C. of C. Teams to Meet Tonight On Member Campaign

Team workers in the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce will hold a "kick-off" meeting and smoker to lay plans for their annual membership campaign today at 8 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager, announced that team workers will be given instructions for reaching a goal of 725 new and renewed memberships.

The campaign will be opened on Tuesday, Oct. 7, and continued through Friday. George W. Stevens has been named honorary chairman of the drive.

Charles Kafer will serve as campaign chairman, assisted by E. C. Geiger as chairman of the campaign committee and Robert Remy, president.

Routzon said that members would be appointed to serve on different teams and that team captains will be selected at the meeting.

The various teams will compete for the greatest number of new and renewed memberships. Prizes will be awarded to the winning teams and their captains, according to Routzon.

Coach Paul Snyder's announced intention of sending his Mansfield High Tygers out to score as quickly and often as possible Friday night against the Sandusky Blue Streaks in retaliation for former setbacks suffered by Mansfield, appears to have found popular favor among Tyger supporters.

"But," warns Harry Mehock, who scouted Sandusky against Lorain, "don't sell those Sanduskies short. They'll be the best ball club we've faced this season, in spite of the fact that they've lost to Cleveland Collinwood and Lorain.

* * *

"Remember that Collinwood and Lorain are both good teams this year, and each defeated Sandusky by only two touchdowns.

"When Lorain tried to use its second team, Sandusky scored in a hurry, just like that, boom, boom."

Two booms in the Mehock vocabulary means two touchdowns.

* * *

On your scoresheet please make room
For a little item known as boom.

* * *

"I hope you fellows do roll up a score on Sandusky. When they had it, they never let up on the blitzkrieg against us, or anyone else.

"If Sandusky's down this year, they deserve some good beatings."

* * *

Ruhl showed Mehock and me evidence in print that he has become, among other things, one of the Akron Beacon-Journal's theater critics.

"What does that mean?" jested Mehock, "a come-down or a let-up?"

* * *

It takes the Mehock to make merry
With his strange vocabulary.

Galion Club Takes Shoot

Mansfield Marksmen Win Share of Honors.

Galion riflemen won the team championship in the N. C. O. outdoor shoot at Galion yesterday, and the right to represent the district in the Ohio association matches at Mt. Gilead Oct. 5, but Mansfield marksmen took their share of individual honors.

L. A. Arntz of Mansfield won the all-sight championship with 791 out of 800, and the iron sight title with 396 against 26 contestants.

* * *

Cleo Tsleiderer of Galion took the scope sight honors with 399 out of 400, with his closest competition coming from a Mansfield woman, Opal Hassinger, who shot with the Ashland club.

* * *

Mrs. Hassinger, shooting from under canvas in the rain and heavy gale, turned in a 398 score, missing once from 50 yards and once from 100 yards.

Galion's team total was 1,980 while Mansfield Gasco club was second with 1,975 and Ashland was third with 1,972.

Gophers, Indians Rate Tops

Pick Minnesota, Stanford To Rule Year's Football.

By HERB BARKER.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Put down Minnesota and Stanford in your football book once more as potential champions and, even at this early date, figure on keeping close watch on Tulane, Duke, Texas, Navy, Georgetown, and Notre Dame. And don't waste any tears on Harmon-less Michigan.

Defeat for some of these may be no farther away than this week but the finger points to them on the basis of their exploits on the first big program of the new season.

* * *

Minnesota, rated the No. 1 team in the country last year, started off a new campaign last week by whipping Washington's Huskies, Pacific coast power, 14-6, as Bruce Smith scored both Gopher touchdowns and generally comported himself like the all-American he is touted to be. Minnesota will be idle this week but Stanford, which just got past tough Oregon, 19-15, thanks mainly to All-American Quarterback Frankie Albert, will play U. C. L. A.'s Bruins. U. C. L. A. beat Washington State, 7-6, in its opener.

Tulane looked tremendous in an easy 21-7 conquest of Boston College, Sugar Bowl champions and an unbeaten, untied array in 1940. Next opponent for Tulane is Auburn.

Notre Dame, uncovering a fine passer in Angelo Bertelli during last week's 38-7 rout of Arizona, tackles stiffer opposition in Indiana this week, even though the Hoosiers dropped a last minute 19-7 decision to Detroit. Michigan's Wolverines tackle Iowa after handing Michigan State a neat 19-7 trouncing. Iowa warmed up with Drake, 25-3.

* * *

Dana Bible's Texas Longhorns, who brushed aside Colorado, 31-6, may find Louisiana State's Tigers harder to digest although the Tigers were beaten by Holy Cross, 19-13. Georgetown, conqueror of highly-rated Mississippi, 16-6, should have no worries with Virginia Tech, trounced by Kentucky, 37-11. Navy, which lived up to its advance notices in a 31-0 rout of William & Mary, faces West Virginia.

* * *

Intersectional games are heavily stressed this week. Paul Brown's Ohio State Buckeyes, who outplayed Missouri, 12-7, tangle with Southern California, 13-7 victors over Oregon State. Purdue, tripped by Vanderbilt, 3-0, moves eastward to play Pitt. Fordham, virtually certain to be a championship factor in the east, makes its first start against Southern Methodist.

Other games include:

* * *

Penn and Harvard at Philadelphia; Cornell plays Syracuse and Columbia meets Brown. Princeton and Dartmouth play members of the "Little Three," the Tigers battling Williams, while Dartmouth engages Amherst. Colgate, with a fine team in the making, plays Penn State at Buffalo.

* * *

Midwest.

Northwestern makes its debut against Kansas State, held to a scoreless tie by Fort Hays Teachers Wisconsin opens against Marquette and Illinois against Miami of Ohio

Buck Coach Not Pleased

Says Team Must Improve Blocking and Passing.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Paul Brown has his first victory as Ohio State football coach today but the new Buckeye mentor wasn't at all satisfied.

* * *

"It wasn't my idea of a good team. We had to work too hard for what we got," Brown said today as he discussed the Bucks' 12 to 7 win over Missouri in the opener last Saturday.

* * *

"All we had was a lot of blast and power" Brown said. "We lacked speed around the ends. We couldn't loosen up Missouri's defense and it was like playing against a 10-man line.

"We're going to work on more speed in an effort to develop more outside strength, that is on end runs and sweeps. And we're going to have to develop a deep passing game," Brown said.

* * *

"If the fans who saw the game think that the type of ball we played constitutes my system, they're wrong. We lacked balance in our attack and that was a sign of weakness. We're going to broaden our offense and loosen it up," the Buck coach declared.

* * *

Brown said that "naturally I was glad to win and very pleased to get off on the right foot."

Brown took all the blame for the touchdown scored by Missouri in the last two minutes.

"There was slightly over two minutes left in the game, Missouri was trailing by 12 points, it was third down and 13 yards to go for a first down, so what would you expect them to do," Brown explained.

* * *

"Naturally we expected them to pass and I instructed our ends and tackles to concentrate on holding up their ends from getting out for passes and we shifted into a five-man line. So what happens, Wade runs the ball, and right through the middle of the line."

* * *

The Bucks came out of the game in fine physical condition. Only Guard Ed Bruckner suffered any injury His right foot was stepped on and today it was swollen enough to prevent him from wearing a shoe.

The Bucks started work today in preparation for their game Saturday with Southern California at Los Angeles. They will leave Wednesday morning by train.

Hundred Dogs Seen In Show

Fostoria Dachshund Wins Shelby Honors.

SHELBY—More than 100 dogs took part in the sporting breed dog show sponsored at W. W Skiles athletic field here Sunday afternoon by Shelby Conservation association

The best of the show trophy cup was won by a Dachshund, "Rhinegold of Arthea," owned by Dr. and Mrs. Arthur W. McComb of Fostoria. The cup was presented by Mayor W. R. Morris.

Stewards for the show included Louis Willis and Mason S. Freeman, both of Shelby. The judges were Billy Lang of Elyria and Wallace Larson of Cleveland.

Because of inclement weather, the attendance at the show was held down to several hundred persons. Refreshments were served by members of the high school speech club

Ontarios Belt 28 Runs, Nip Plymouth

Ontario baseball players ended up their season yesterday in a blaze of Sunday glory by blasting the Plymouth Locomotives 28-5 on the New London fairgrounds diamond

Jumping on three Plymouth pitchers, the Ontarios came to bat 63 times during the afternoon and belted out 30 hits behind the pitching of Chuck Byers and Dawson.

Byers a Mansfield Braves pitcher, held the Plymouths to two runs during his five innings and Dawson coasted through the remaining innings.

Dodger Fans Get Lowdown From 'Bum'

To a group of admiring Brooklyn fans, Shortstop Peewee Reese of the National League Champion Dodgers shows how his teammate, Pete Reiser (sitting beside Reese) socked a homer in the pennant-clinching game with the Boston Braves. Scene is outside Ebbets field, Brooklyn, where the Dodgers rested and received the adulation of their loyal followers.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Going way out on an overloaded limb, this department hereby picks Louis to knock out Nova in 10 rounds or less.... All right, maybe Joe has slipped a little, but in 54 fights the only guy that ever suffened him was Schmeling and the only one who has come near to licking him lately was Conn. . . . Nova isn't a Conn or even a Schmeling when it comes to defending himself, so even if Joe can't toss a punch quite as fast as he used to he's going to hit Lou and hit him hard . . . That's usually enough . . . If it isn't Joe isn't bad at avoiding a sock

* * *

MONDAY MATINEE.

Louis turned down a ticket to his own fight the other day with the remark, "I won't need a seat. I expect to be on my feet all of the time. . . . "Boys' wear, men's wear and five Brooklyn Dodgers" was the elevator boys' cry the other day when some of Dem Bums spent a day off autographing baseballs in a Manhattan department store . . . Don't worry about Pete Reiser's arm. Dr. Frank Glenn, who was called in to look it over when it first snapped, asked Pete how he felt and then decided to stay and see the ball game before going to the hospital for x-rays.

* * *

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Tom Sweeney, Worcester (Mass.) Evening Gazette: "He's a true Brooklynite: If he curses the Dodgers as wildly as he cheers 'em. . . . If he thinks that the greatest and most colorful player who ever lived was 'the Babe'—only he means Herman not Ruth. . . . If his idea of Paradise is herring for supper and a newspaper telling how the Bums won and Durocher was thrown out of the game."

* * *

CLEANING THE CUFF.

On a radio quiz program Saturday when a guy missed his answer, the M. C. said if he'd make a one-minute speech knocking the Dodgers he'd get a free ticket to the series. . . . The guy walked right off with the irate announcement that he wouldn't knock the Dodgers for 50 tickets. . . . Ed Dunforth of the Atlanta Journal, who had the courage to predict Vanderbilt might knock off Purdue, added "if they do that little thing, don't nominate them for the Rose Bowl, either."

Ohioans Play 25 This Week

Meet Gridiron Foes From Coast to Coast.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio's grid teams, staging a 25-game college program next weekend, meet foes from coast to coast and from northern border states to the Gulf of Mexico.

Six of the contests are in the Ohio conference, and 14 are with out-of-state opponents, 10 on foreign fields.

* * *

Topping the tilts are Ohio State's clash with Southern California at Los Angeles, and Miami's invasion of Champaign, Ill., for a battle with Bob Zuppke's Big Ten team. On the home front the spotlight glares at Dayton where Harry Baujan's U. of D. Flyers, with 137 points to none for the foe, stack up against Marshall's Thundering herd.

* * *

Coach Sam Henderson has another powerhouse down in the West Virginia metropolis of Huntington, but Dayton appears to have the talent to win, after Friday night's 75 to 0 win over Detroit Tech.

Here's the week-end slate:

Thursday: Defiance at West Liberty.

* * *

Friday: Bowling Green at Akron, Mount Union at Denison, Kent State at Findlay, Wittenberg at Muskingum (all night games), and Marietta at Wabash.

* * *

Saturday: John Carroll at Baldwin-Wallace (night); Ohio State at Southern California, Ashland at Heidelberg.

Brooks, Yanks Make Plans

Dodgers Ride In Parade as Police Take Position.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The boisterous Brooklyn Dodgers and staid New York Yankees focused their full attention on the world series today, even if a lot of this town's sports fans did not.

* * *

Since the baseball classic does not get underway until Wednesday, the sports spotlight was turned on tonight's heavyweight title fight between Joe Louis and Lou Nova at the Polo Grounds, right across the Harlem river from Yankee stadium.

* *

But the champions of the National and American leagues went about the business of preparing for their own world's championship struggle. Both teams scheduled workouts at the stadium, and the Dodgers arranged to ride in a late-afternoon parade in Brooklyn as the borough officially and elaborately celebrated the Brooks' first pennant in 21 years

This monster celebration was expected to excite the Dodgers' fabulous followers to such peaks of enthusiasm that the entire squad of Brooklyn players moved into a Manhattan hotel last night in order to get some rest and relaxation before the big show starts.

* * *

The same expectation that Brooklyn's baseball fanatics wouldn't be able to wait till opening day to set out for the series prompted police to assign a small detail of patrolmen to Yankee stadium last night, 18 hours ahead of their previous plans.

* * *

The 28,000 unreserved and bleacher seats still available at the stadium will not go on sale till Wednesday morning but a line of fans is expected to start forming at almost any hour now.

All box and reserved seats at the stadium have been sold out for several weeks, and a crowd of about 70,000, largest in series history, is expected to see the first game. A crowd of similar size will see the second game in the stadium Thursday and then the scene will shift to Ebbetts field, which seats only 32,000, for contests Friday, Saturday and Sunday. If sixth and seventh games are necessary, they will be played at the stadium next Monday and Wednesday.

Little World Series Moves To Columbus

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The little world series shifted here from Canada today, with the champion Montreal Royals of the International League holding a two-game to one edge over the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association.

* * *

The teams, expected to arrive in mid-afternoon, will step into a welcoming celebration that has an international tinge. Series play resumes tomorrow night at Red Bird stadium.

* * *

The Royals went one-up on Columbus by winning 9 to 6 before 17,000 customers yesterday. The Birds, holding a 4 to 2 margin, appeared well on their way toward their second straight win when the International champs broke loose in the sixth inning and scored seven runs to ice the game.

Al Hager Takes Richland County Tourney By 4 Strokes

Shooting against the wind and the rain and 45 opponents, Al Hager, Mansfield High golf star, yesterday won the second annual Richland county tournament at Westbrook Country club with an aggregate of 153 strokes for the 36-hole madal event.

* * *

He was nine strokes over par, but was four strokes under his nearest rival, defending champion Joe Mayer, who finished with 157.

* * *

Hager had 39-39-38-37—153, Mayer 40-39-42-36 157, John Burns 41-40-42-35—158 and Pete Linster 43-39-39-38—159

Most sensational shot of the day was turned in by Howard Hosler, playing with Pete Linster and Carl Wiseman. On the tough No. 5 hole, he sent a 190-yard spoon shot into the teeth of a gale, and straight into the cup for an eagle two.

Finishing scores of other contestants were: Bill Black jr., 161, Vin Tipul 163, Gene Zediker 164, Joe Kasper and John Kleshinski 165, Al Kushin and Carl Wiseman 166, Frank Cipris and Vin Malaska 167, Bart Haley 169, John Carr and Howard Hosler 170, Joe Collins and T. Etzel 171, C. Eisenberger 172 Nick Linster H. Smith, and H. W. May 173, Bob Kelly and F. Clerice 174, S. Fisher, Nick Kompenovich and Steve Sturtzinger 175, George Zimmerman, H. City News Gridders Give South Akron Awnings Battle

Mansfield football fans who followed the City News pro gridders to Akron yesterday found much to make them proud of their warriors, even in an 18 to 6 defeat at the hands of the tough South Akron Awnings at Buchtel field.

* * *

There was plenty of Akron folding money being waved in the faces of the Mansfield fans saying that the Awnings would win by at least 25 points.

* * *

Except for a first period in which the City News club was obviously suffering from stage fright before the big crowd and the reputation of their opponents, the Mansfielders played the Awnings on even terms.

Akron started out in high gear, with a drive down the field to the 15-yard line early in the game, only to see Mansfield hold, and an attempted field goal by Del Fessler go wide of the uprights.

The Awnings, after this temporary check, came charging back for two touchdowns in the first period, led by Fessler and Bill Collier, shifty, hard-running colored star. Collier scored the first touchdown on a lateral from Fessler, running 15 yards for the score. Earl Boyle scored late in the quarter on a short plunge into the line.

From there on Mansfield was just as good as Akron. With Kenny Lockhart and Al Schwaner doing the bulk of the ball carrying, they carried the fight to the Awnings throughout the second quarter until Lockhart was injured just before the half.

* * *

And in the third period City News scored on the most sensational play of the game, a 73-yard touchdown play on a triple lateral pass. Schwaner got away for 50 yards on the play, and just as he was being tackled he lateraled to McMullen who went the other 23 yards.

* * *

Akron scored its lone second-half touchdown midway in the final quarter when Collier took a 20-yard pass on the four-yard line and dashed over the goal

The Mansfield club is scheduled at home next Saturday night, meeting the strong St. Joe Athletic club of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Bears Trounce Packers, 25-17

Nip Green Bay Bid To Gain League Lead.

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Chicago Bears required only 50 fleeting seconds to prove that they are ready to defend their prized professional football title against all comers.

* * *

While the champions were whipping Green Bay in brutal style, 25 to 17, Sunday the New York Giants were smashing the Washington Redskins 17 to 10. The Bears now lead the western division with one victory and no losses and the Giants and Brooklyn are tied in the eastern sector, each with two wins.

* * *

The Bears rolled up a 15-point edge only to see the Packers pass them dizzy and take a 17-15 lead Then the massive Chicagoans retaliated in 50 seconds George McAfee returned the kickoff 51 yards to Green Bay's 49. Bill Osmanski tore off 23 yards, Ray Nolting picked up 13 and McAfee floated around left end for the score. Later Bob Snyder connected for his second field goal to clinch the outcome.

* * *

* * *

Jock Sutherland's Brooklyn club kept pace with the Giants by defeating Philadelphia, 24 to 13, Saturday night. Detroit and the Chicago Cardinals engaged in a battle of frustration Saturday night, a 14-14 deadlock which left each team still looking for its first league victory of 1941.

Bookies Lay Odds On Louis

Brown Bomber Meets Nova As Betting Favorite.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—Joe Louis, of the blasting fists, and Lou Nova, a rugged, courageous specimen from California, clash at 10 o'clock (E.S.T.) tonight at the Polo Grounds in a 15-round heavyweight championship fight that promises to leave 60,000 spectators limp.

* * *

This is one battle that scarcely can miss. Opinion is divided sharply on the probable winner, but there seems no doubt in anyone's mind that it will be a cruel, spectacular engagement while it lasts.

* * *

This is one of the few times that the big colored boy, Louis, has met a man his equal in physical equipment, fighting heart and absolute confidence since he won the title from Jim Braddock in 1937. Offhand, only Max Schmeling among the many who have challenged Louis and taken their beatings appeared on the surface to have as good a chance as Nova against the bomber.

Nova belongs in there tonight on his record. He knocked out Max Baer twice, among other things, and had Tommy Farr on the verge of a knockout in the closing rounds of their scrap. Only some peculiar interference by the referee saved Tommy, who only shortly before that had breezed 15 rounds against Louis.

* * *

The one time Nova ever was beaten as a professional was the night he climbed into the ring, a sick man, against Tony Galento in Philadelphia.

* * *

The bookmakers do not share Nova's confidence in his destiny. At last checkup they were offering a bonus of 13 to 5 that he catches a licking from Louis. Anyone wanting to bet on the champion was asked to put up $15 to win $5. It is one of the biggest betting fights, they say, since the days of Jack Dempsey.

While many observers, including this writer, have picked Nova to win, it must be admitted that they have done so with some foreboding. They aren't obnoxious about it, and they usually wind up with a cautious . . "If Joe doesn't slaughter him in the first round."

* * *

Physically, there is almost nothing to choose between them. Both are just over 200, generally considered an ideal weight for heavyweights, and they are of almost equal height.

* * *

The only cloud was, literally, the threat of light showers during the evening. The very thought was painful to Promoter Mike Jacobs, who had a safe practically bursting with fresh money and was talking to himself, with gestures. If a postponement is necessary, it would be put back to Wednesday night, which would run the fight smack into the World series. The postponement would be for 48 hours because of Yom Kippur on Tuesday.

FIGHT BROADCAST

NEW YORK—Mutual Broadcasting System will start broadcast of the championship fight between Joe Louis and Lou Nova at 10 p. m. this evening.

Indians Finish Dismal Year Seeking A General Manager

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The club which came out of the grapefruit belt last spring as the experts' choice in the American league has finished at the bottom of a crowded first division and is looking for a new general manager. Thus ended the Indians' 1941 season.

The St. Louis Browns gave Cleveland a 5 to 4 licking in the final game yesterday to cut the Indians out of an undisputed fourth place.

* * *

There may have been a touch of irony in the fact that the Detroit Tigers, in losing to the third place White Sox yesterday, also wound up in fourth place, with 75 victories in 154 games. Last year the Tigers took the league championship away from the Indians by a single game.

* * *

The resignation of Cyril C. Slapnicka as vice president and general manager of the club was turned in last Wednesday, but did not become known until the final day of the season.

President Alva Bradley said last night he had made no moves toward the selection of Slapnicka's successor.

Slapnicka, an outstanding pitcher with Milwaukee from 1912 to 1918, became a Cleveland scout in 1923.

* * *

He found a good many of the players who have starred on Cleveland teams of recent years, including Willis Hudlin, Mel Harder, Earl Averill, Hal Trosky and Ken Keltner. In 1935 he succeeded Billy Evans, now general manager of the Cleveland Rams of the National Professional Football league, as general manager of the Indians.

* * *

One of his prize finds may be absent from the Tribal lineup next season, for Bob Feller will be inducted into selective service before long unless he is deferred because of the dependency of his parents.

Feller finished the season with 25 victories, the best mark in the major leagues, but two under the number he achieved last year.

Hunters: Daylight Is Not Sunrise

COLUMBUS —(AP)— For the benefit of you who are going duck hunting, let it be reminded that the appearance of daylight does not necessarily mean the hour of sunrise has come.

* * *

Federal law stipulates that shooting cannot start before sunrise, and the Ohio conservation division suggested today that hunters check their newspapers or weather bureau for the official hour. Some hunters who thought daylight meant sunrise were arrested last year.

* * *

Because sunrise differs in various sections of the state, the division said that game protectors would be governed by the official time as announced by the weather bureau in each locality. Shooting must stop at 4 p. m.

The season opens Wednesday and runs through Nov. 29, ducks, geese, brant and coot are legal game, and the duck bag limit is 10 daily, with a limit of 20 in possession after the first day.

WILLIAMS CAPTURES BATTING CHAMPIONSHIP

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— His name is Theodore Francis Williams, his age is 22 and although he measures six feet three inches in height, he weighs only 175 after eating a couple of thick steaks, but this lean southpaw swinger who plays for the Boston Red Sox ranked with baseball's immortals today.

Ted slashed out six hits in eight times at bat in his team's last two games yesterday to finish the season with a batting average of .4057, the first time in 11 years that any major leaguer has batted that high.

GIVEN $25 FINE

GALION — William Lee Jackson, colored, was fined $25 and costs in Mayor W. M. King's court Saturday morning and taken to the Crawford county jail to serve out the fine and costs. He was tried on charges of stealing an overall suit and traveling bag out of a caboose in the Big Four yards here.

He was arrested at Berea and brought back to Galion by Big Four Detective Russell Smith.

DAUGHTER BORN

GALION—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cyphers of Mt. Gilead, are the parents of a daughter, born Saturday night at City hospital.

CHILD MARRIAGE PUZZLES POLICE

Girl, 14, Says She's Going To Have Baby To Win Boy, 15, as Husband.

and there was no evidence that Dorothy had ever been or was now pregnant. There seemed to be reason to doubt that Dorothy clearly knows what pregnancy is.

Having obtained this confession from Dorothy, Crichton interviewed Freddie. He was not dismayed nor angry.

"The story wasn't so important to me," he said. "I wanted to marry her anyway. I thought about asking her lots of times before she told me about the baby."

Both children are held in the juvenile detention home. Neighbors reported they were living together as husband and wife and authorities separated them, two weeks after their marriage.

Crichton said the parents of both would be brought to trial on a charge of contributing to their delinquency because they were "lax" in not having a physician examine Dorothy to confirm her story. But there was a suggestion that the court would resolve "the tragedy" another way. Under Michigan law, probate judges have the power to waive the law which requires both parties to a marriage to be 16 years old or older.

Homer Hancock, an inspector in a defense plant, and his wife, are willing to support husband and wife until he is 16 and may get a state permit to work. They think their son's bride is "a sweet, young girl."

MILK SPILLS IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

SHELBY—Some 250 gallons of milk spilled over a county road southeast of here Sunday morning when the truck, driven by Walter Lehman, east of the city, turned over on the road.

A spring broke on the truck and allowed the body of the truck to tip when the weight of some 25 cans of milk shifted over to the low side of the truck.

A truck loaded with stone went into the ditch on Route 96 east of Shelby near the Ganges road and turned over. The driver was uninjured. The truck was carrying stone to Bucyrus.

HOLD BANQUET.

SHELBY—Troop 3 of the Boy Scouts will hold its annual Parent-Scout banquet at 6:30 p. m. today at First Methodist church.

DRIVER HELD AFTER CRASH

SHELBY—Herbert Wages of Shiloh was arrested by Police Chief Leroy Coffey and Patrolman Frank Cline Saturday on West Park drive after his car was involved in a traffic accident with one driven by Earnest Dearth, 17 Myers avenue, Shelby. He was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Ralph Poffenbaugh of Crestline was fined $10 and costs when found guilty in Mayor Morris' court of driving a car at an excessive rate of speed.

Glenn A. Sterling of Shelby was fined $5 and costs of $6.20 when found guilty by Mayor Morris of reckless driving charges.

SON BORN.

BUCYRUS—A son, Charles Allen, was born in City hospital over the week-end to Mr. and Mrs. Victor Shultz of 135 Hall street.

Opens Revival

Col. William Quirk of New York City, an officer in the Salvation Army for the past 40 years, will open a revival campaign at the Mansfield Salvation Army citadel, 47 South Main street, Tuesday night, Adjt. Paul Hoffman, announced today. Services will be held nightly at 7.30 p. m. through Oct. 12 by the visiting officer who has served in district, territorial and national offices of the Salvation Army and also held one international assignment.

Vote Tomorrow to End Cleveland's 'Dullest' Campaign

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Bringing to a close one of the dullest primary campaigns in the memory of the political sages, Cleveland's voters will choose two candidates for mayor tomorrow in non-partisan balloting.

Frank J. Lausche, who resigned as common pleas judge to enter the race, and Edward J. Blythin, the incumbent, are named by the experts as the probable nominees. Political writers for the city's three major newspapers are agreed that any other result would be an upset.

Congressman Martin L. Sweeney, former supreme court judge Arthur H. Day and Arnold S. Johnson are their opponents.

All predictions are for a light vote, but the strength of the party organizations will be watched closely for any signs of political tides affecting independent voters. Registered and eligible to vote are 433,785 citizens.

INVENTOR DIES.

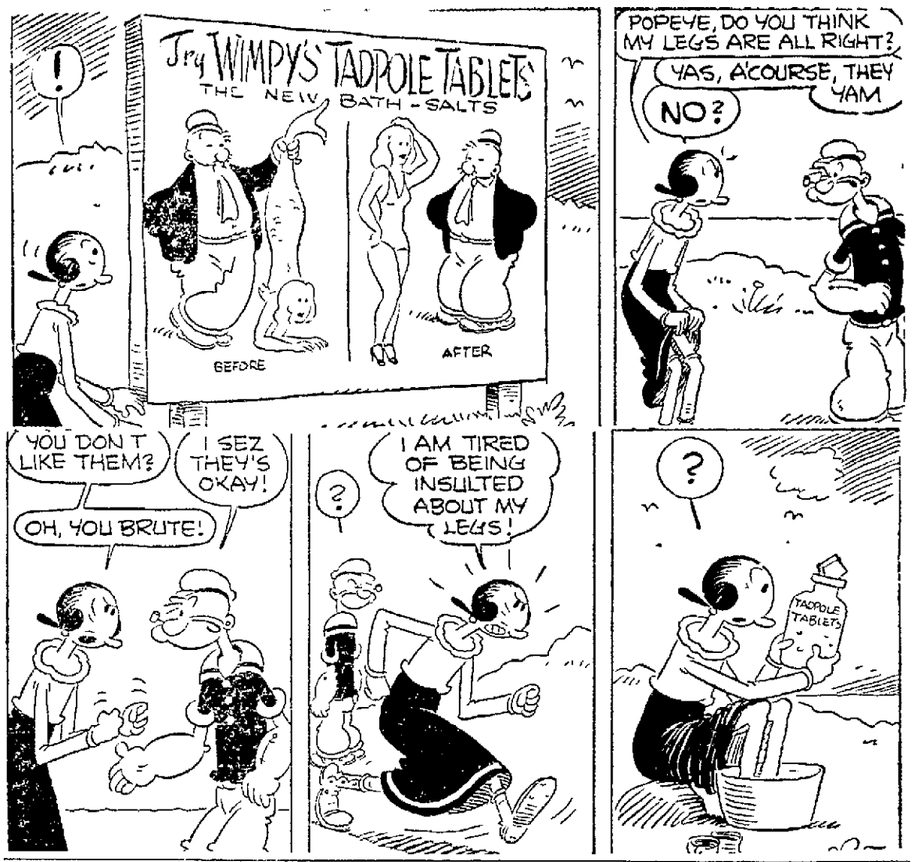
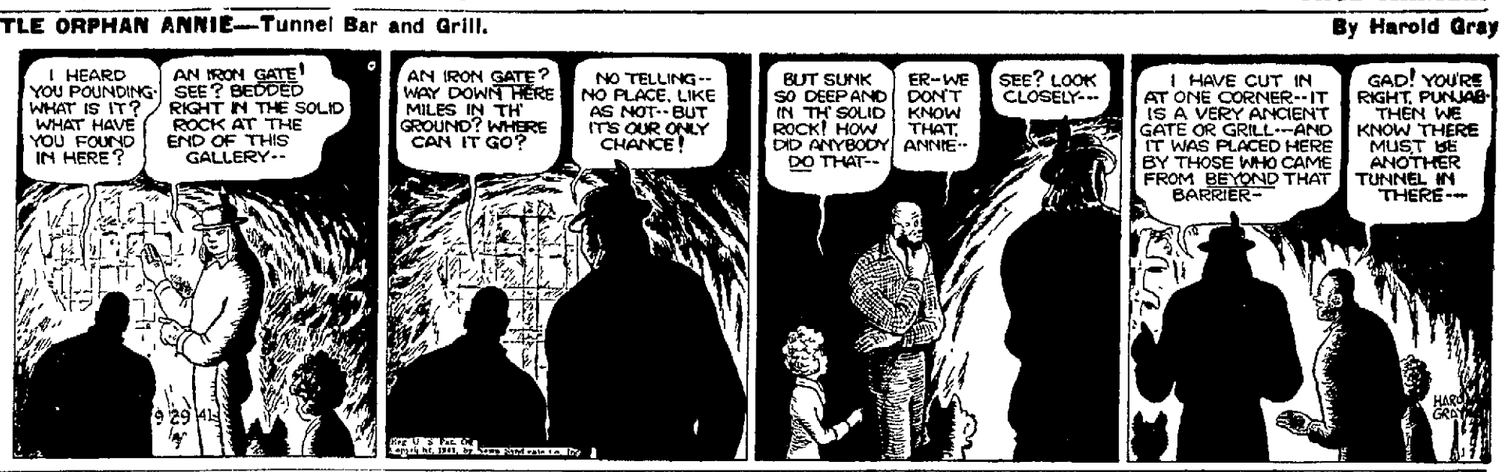
POPEYE—She Knows All the Answer.



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Tunnel Bar and Grill. By Harold Gray



I HEARD YOU POUNDING. WHAT IS IT? WHAT HAVE YOU FOUND IN HERE?
AN IRON GATE! SEE? BEDDED RIGHT IN THE SOLID ROCK AT THE END OF THIS GALLERY--
AN IRON GATE? WAY DOWN HERE MILES IN TH' GROUND? WHERE CAN IT GO?
NO TELLING-- NO PLACE, LIKE AS NOT--BUT IT'S OUR ONLY CHANCE!
BUT SUNK SO DEEP AND IN TH' SOLID ROCK! HOW DID ANYBODY DO THAT-- ER-WE DON'T KNOW THAT, ANNIE--
SEE? LOOK CLOSELY---
I HAVE CUT IN AT ONE CORNER--IT IS A VERY ANCIENT GATE OR GRILL--AND IT WAS PLACED HERE BY THOSE WHO CAME FROM BEYOND THAT BARRIER--
GAD! YOU'RE RIGHT, PUNJAB--THEN WE KNOW THERE MUST BE ANOTHER TUNNEL IN THERE---

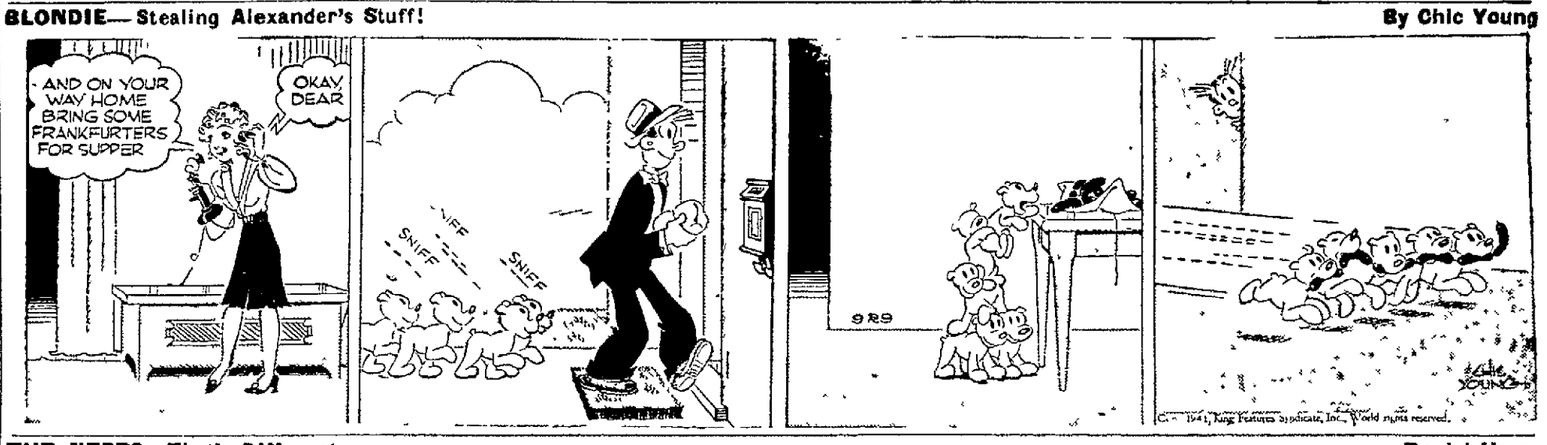
HAROLD GRAY

BLONDIE—Stealing Alexander's Stuff! By Chic Young



PAM—Alarming Thought! By A. W. Brewerton

THERE'S ONE POSITIVE MEANS OF IDENTIFICATION. I'VE HEARD DAVID TALK OF IT OFTEN --AND THAT'S FINGERPRINTS, PROVIDED A PERSON HAS BEEN FINGER-PRINTED!
I WONDER IF ALLEN MASON EVER WAS? VERY FEW CIVILIANS EVER ARE! WHAT MADE ME THINK OF IT WAS, SEVERAL TIMES AT LUNCH YESTERDAY, MR MASON MOISTENED HIS FINGER AGAINST A GLASS AND PRESSED IT DOWN AGAINST THE MENU-CARD--- 9-29
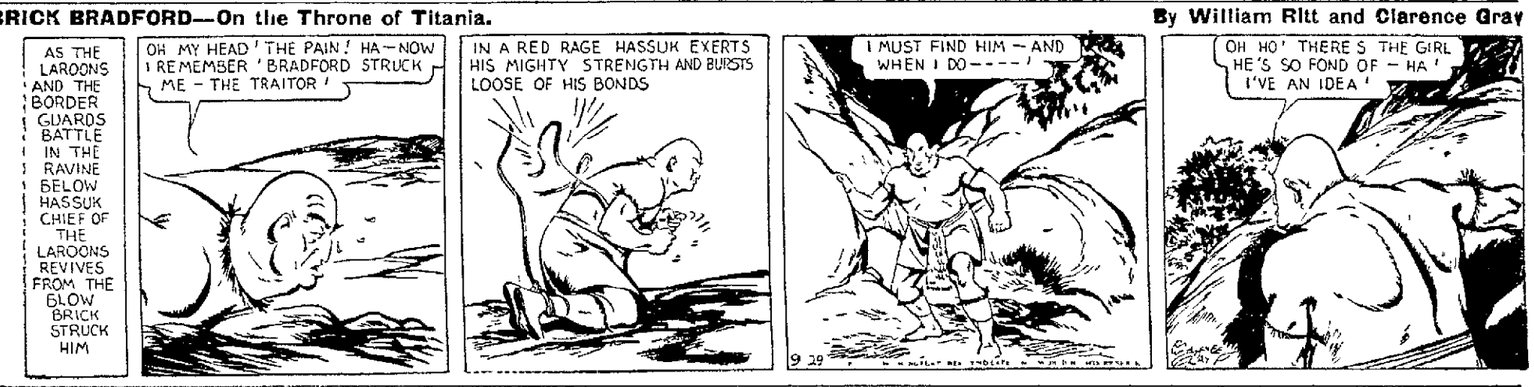
---SORT OF ABSENT-MINDEDLY, BUT IT WAS AS IF HE MIGHT HAVE DONE IT BEFORE! BUT, SUPPOSE HE WAS IN TROUBLE ONCE, AND NOW, WHATEVER HAS HAPPENED TO HIM HAS CHANGED HIM --MADE HIM STRAIGHT AND HONEST---
---WOULDN'T IT BE TERRIBLE, IF I WAS THE MEANS OF HAVING HIM IDENTIFIED-SENT TO JAIL, MAYBE? OH, DEAR, THAT WOULD BE AWFUL"
BREWERTON

THE NEBBS—That's Different. By Jo! Hess

UNCLE RUDY, I HAVE ABOUT MADE UP MY MIND TO GO TO THE HOSPITAL AND TAKE UP NURSING
IT'S A VERY NOBLE AMBITION, BUT IF IT'S BROUGHT ABOUT BY THIS LOVE DISAPPOINTMENT I JUST WOULDN'T ADVISE IT
YOU'RE A NICE-LOOKING GIRL, AND WITH THE MILLIONS OF MEN IN THIS COUNTRY YOU CAN'T LET JUST ONE CHANGE YOUR WHOLE LIFE--IT SEEMS SORT OF SILLY TO ME
9-29
AND THERE ARE MILLIONS OF WOMEN IN THIS WORLD--I SUPPOSE YOU COULD FIND ONE WHO COULD TAKE AUNT FANNY'S PLACE
I WOULD IF SHE PULLED ANYTHING LIKE THAT BEFORE OUR MARRIAGE--AND I MIGHT HAVE GOTTEN SOME GAL THAT WASN'T SO WELL EQUIPPED WITH ARGUMENT AS FANNY
G A Carlos

BRICK BRADFORD—On the Throne of Titania. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray



AS THE LAROONS AND THE BORDER GUARDS BATTLE IN THE RAVINE BELOW HASSUK CHIEF OF THE LAROONS REVIVES FROM THE BLOW BRICK STRUCK HIM
OH MY HEAD! THE PAIN! HA--NOW I REMEMBER 'BRADFORD STRUCK ME - THE TRAITOR!
IN A RED RAGE HASSUK EXERTS HIS MIGHTY STRENGTH AND BURSTS LOOSE OF HIS BONDS
I MUST FIND HIM - AND WHEN I DO----!
OH HO! THERE'S THE GIRL HE'S SO FOND OF - HA! I'VE AN IDEA!

CLEVELAND—(U P)—Jakob Nabel, who claims to be 106 years old, is not in the least dismayed by the fact that it will be two years before the citizenship papers he applied for become final and he confidently looks forward to receiving them.

Nabel said he was born in Hungary in 1835. He came to the United States and settled in Cleveland in 1864. He did not apply for citizenship until relief offices announced that aid to indigents would not be continued unless they sought to become citizens.

STOCK MARKET DISPLAYS MILD UPWARD TREND

Analysts See Hope For Better Situation Among Users of Non-Defense Steel.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Moderate rising tendencies were displayed by leading stocks in today's early market trading.

Market analysts discerned a ray of hope in the survey of the magazine "steel" which said a number of factors give promise of a better situation for non-defense users of metal in the near future.

Figures of the American Iron and Steel Institute also indicated that the bottleneck of finished output had been materially relieved. After declining steadily for five months, production of finished steel turned up in July and again in August.

Police Hunt Man Who Killed Two As Children Watch

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y.—(AP)—State police scoured the woods near here today for a man they said shot and killed two persons in full sight of nearly 100 school children on their way to school.

Chief of Police Charles Engle identified the victims as Nick Monte, 55, proprietor of a coal business located across the street from the Highland Falls high school, and his bookkeeper, Mrs. Doris Croyle, 35. Their assailant he identified as Manuel Jacinto, 45, a former employe of Monte's.

Engle said the school children told him Jacinto met Mrs. Croyle as she was coming to work this morning and shot her in the heart with a .45 caliber revolver. Monte, he added, was shot in the neck as he left his place of business and rushed across the street to assist Mrs. Croyle.

The shooting, Engle asserted, grew out of an argument Jacinto had with Monte over $8 the laborer claimed Monte owed him for work done last summer.

VISIT CEMETERY IN FRAUD CASE

Jury Goes To Marion Today and Springfield Tomorrow.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A federal court jury left today by bus to visit Forest Glen cemetery in Marion preparatory to hearing testimony in the trial of 37 men charged with conspiracy and using the mails to defraud in the sale of burial lots.

The 12 jurors and two alternates will visit Clen Haven cemetery in Springfield and Glen Rest near here tomorrow. Opening statements are scheduled Wednesday.

Accompanying the jurors were U. S. Marshal Charles H. Sisson and Deputy Ralph Quelette. Federal District Attorney Calvin Crawford and his assistants, Ray O'Donnell and Robert E. Marshall, also will inspect the cemeteries.

corridor where Miss Miley was found, was being studied by finger-print experts. He said all five shots fired came from a .32 caliber automatic but that it could not be determined immediately if they came from one gun or two.

Mrs. Miley was placed in an oxygen tent at St. Joseph's hospital this morning. An attendant said the chances were "a thousand to one against her recovery."

Authorities indicated they believed Mrs. Miley might have been mistaken in believing that the assailants had been two professional bandits seeking the proceeds of a dance given at the country club Saturday night. They indicated that they thought the events as she narrated them, "unusual," and county patrol chief, J. W. McCord ordered his men to look into "other angles." He declined to specify these "angles."

Miss Miley was a slender, tall girl with glistening black hair and a pretty, animated face. For nine years, sports writers and galleries at the country's leading tournaments for women have been unanimous in praise of both her game and her beauty. She held the western amateur, the western open, the southern, and the trans-Mississippi titles and was runner-up in the last national women's amateur.

Her body was clad in pajamas and she had—apparently hastily—drawn on a negligee, perhaps to rush to the aid of her mother. Her body was in a corridor outside her bedroom.

Mrs. Miley is manager of the country club, one of the most exclusive in the aristocratic Blue-Grass county, and has an apartment on the second floor. Her daughter lived there between her travels from tournament to tournament. The husband and father, Fred Miley, was formerly professional at Lexington. He is now professional at a Cincinnati club and was not there Saturday night.

Mrs. Miley awakened by a hammering on her door. She opened it and confronted two men, who had handkerchiefs tied around the lower parts of their faces. One of them demanded the receipts from the dance—approximately $145. She said the money was in bags on a closet shelf. Then one of the men knocked her down with an iron pipe wrapped in a towel. Whereupon one of the men fired three bullets into her at close range.

This aroused Miss Miley, she said. The girl came running from her room and was met by a bullet in the forehead. (A second bullet entered her back.)

labor disputes by the methods of lockouts and strikes in the "intolerable" category.

Next to procuring maximum production, he said, the most important economic aim of public policy at this time, is to dampen civilian demand for goods which can not be produced in sufficient quantities.

Qualified support for Secretary Morgenthau's proposal to limit corporate profits to 6 per cent came today from Senator Nye (R-N.D.), one of the administration's most insistent critics on foreign policy.

Nye, who headed the senate committee which investigated profits in the last war, told reporters that "there will come a time when it will take more than a 6 per cent limitation on corporation profits to satisfy the people that the tax load is fair."

But, the North Dakotan asserted, any effort to take away defense profits should be coupled with "safeguards providing some control over wages and production costs."

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee meanwhile criticized the treasury secretary's plan, declaring that it would "result in incalculable hardship to legitimate business, disrupt production vital to national defense, and confiscate normal profits essential to the survival of free enterprise. It would crush and kill small business."

ENDS LIFE.

NEWARK —(INS)— Raymond Cameron, 30, of Cleveland, committed suicide by running a hose from the exhaust pipe into his car parked in a field near Hebron, the state highway patrol reported.

CHILD'S BODY FOUND.

MARTINS FERRY, O. —(INS)— Ten-year-old Clifford McConnell, who disappeared from his home Saturday, was found dead of "black damp," deadly mine gas, in an abandoned coal shaft. Playmates led searchers to his body.
